By court order City gains delay in airport growth

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

Romulus has won a one-year "stay of execution" on condemnation proceedings against individual property owners involved in the expansion of Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

But it's the property owners themselves who will have to fight for their rights, if they think they've been wronged by the Wayne County Road Commission, the city attorney said.

"There's no way the city can enter into a lawsuit on behalf of individual citizens for alleged wrong-doings by the county in condemnation proceedings," added William Munger, the city attorney. "It would constitute an illegal expenditure of public funds to benefit individuals."

MUNGER proceeded with a court test of the Wayne County Road Commission's right to take Romulus residents' land last week.

He sought an injunction against further expansion of the airport following a meeting with the representatives of the Wayne County Road Commission.

Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Michael L. Stacy ruled that condemnation proceedings by the Wayne County Road Commission are at least a year off.

Munger said the city could become a party to a class action suit brought against the airport by those property owners who would be affected by further plans for expansion of the airport.

"In that way, the class could act to get a definitive declaration of individual's rights concerning the expansion of the airport," Munger said. "Every individual would have to then be represented by himself to obtain those rights."

MUNGER SAID it was a serious misunderstanding on the part of some citizens that the city would enter into a lawsuit in their behalf to halt construction at the airport.

"I can say the city is opposed to, further expansion of the airport," he added. "But it is only through a class action suit that we could halt that expansion."

The key to the argument would be whether the airport could prove necessity to condemn land laying on the perimeter of the existing facility.

"The class could force the airport to prove the necessity of such expansion, say for such purposes as expansion," Munger said. "In that case, the class would pay for attorney and engineering fees which would be needed to fight the proposal by the road commission."

"IT APPEARS to be there are other means of handling storm run-off than seizing people's land outside of flight areas," Monger added. "Possibly there could be a system of underground basins, or the utilization of areas in the flight paths for bonding which wouldn't require seizing other land."

"But to pay for research into such alternatives, would cost the average homeowner quite a bit of money."

"A class could absorb the burden, by hiring one engineer to do the studies, if that were necessary."

But any class action would serve merely as a guide of rights for individual homeowners, who would have to obtain representation for themselves in court.

Last week Stacy ruled that condemnation proceedings would have to be entered into the regular circuit court docket for scheduling — a procedure which would delay trials for a year.

AT THE SAME time, he affirmed property owners' rights to question the necessity of expansion of the airport. A right which may lay the way for a class action suit by Romulus residents against further airport expansion, he said.

Stacy apparently was upset with the Ruling puts issue on court's docket

The mayor of Romulus was elated over a decision by Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Michael L. Stacy that condemnation proceedings by the Wayne County Road Commission are at least a year off.

"It's good news for those citizens who have been sitting under the gun, waiting to know what their rights are concerning condemnation and moving procedures," Mayor Terry L. Troutt said. "Now the citizens have some time to prepare for the county, and possibly to stop any further expansion of the airport."

City forms plans for road paving

Plans are shaping up for paving more than 19 miles of roads in Romulus this year.

The Romulus City Council has given its informal approval to a proposal to pave 9.8 miles of major roads and 9.5 miles of local roads in late spring or early summer.

The council was expected to give formal approval to the proposal last night.

PLANS FOR the program were drawn up after the city administration received news from the Michigan Highway Department that more than 15.5 miles of local roads in Romulus will be reclassified as major roads. The local road mileage has dropped from more than 86 last year to just more than 70 this year.

The major road-local road designation scheme is important to the city because it derives funds in gas and weight shared taxes with the state based on the amount of mileage of each road designation in the community. Major roads bring more on a per-mile basis.

Romulus received $216,000 for major roads and $108,000 for local roads in state shared revenues last year.

Despite the recent reclassification, the city will not realize any change in its revenues for the different mileages until next fiscal year, starting July 1.

CITY ESTIMATES place increased revenues for the change in road mileage at $50,000 next year.

However, that figure is not firm, because the fund amounts sent back to the city depend on the amount of taxes the state collects for gasoline sales and the amount of fees collected for license plates.

"With the energy crisis, there's no telling how much the state will have available for distribution back to the communities," said Romulus Economic Developer John Chihani.

Still, city officials are confident that whatever Romulus will derive in the motor vehicle funds will be enough to defray the cost of bonding for the road improvement program.

PLANS ARE to bond for $1.5 million of the $2 million paving project.

Some $1 million of the bonding funds will be used for the major road paving — a project which will include Beverly, Cogswell, Wick, Smith, Tyler, Ozga and Harrison roads.

The remaining $500,000 in bond funds will be used for local roads, with the city chipping in matching funds to comply with state law.

Paving solves image problem

The paving of roads in Romulus many solve an image problem for the city, according to Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt.

The Road program up for the approval of the city council calls for the paving of Beverly Road for through traffic across the length of the city.

"People who will want to travel east and west across Romulus won't only have to use Van Born Road. They will be able to use Beverly," Troutt said. The more traffic traveling that road, the less likely someone will stop to dump a body in Romulus."

The city has received the image of a dumping ground for bodies last fall. According to the mayor, murders from the Detroit area used the Beverly-Henry Ruff intersection to dump their victims because that area is sparsely populated, dimly lit, unpaved and basically undeveloped.

"forward step for the Romulus Board of Education," board members unanimously agreed to a contract for data processing services with the Wayne County Intermediate School District.

The cost of the program for the next fiscal year is estimated at $15,000. Part of the cost will be picked up through the state aid program and the cost of the testing and student scheduling programs, now contracted out, will be deducted.

Installation of equipment is anticipated for mid-May, and the first area of use will be for payroll and budget items.

"IT TAKES office personnel almost three days to run a payroll," Romulus School Supt. Robert McConeghy said. "And with the data processing, once the input is made, it will take a couple of hours."

Prior to making a decision on the data processing program, board members and school officials had visited the intermediate school district center housed in the former Garwood plant on Van Born Road in Wayne.

The areas of finance, personnel and student services will have priority as the program is set up in the Romulus School District, McConeghy said.

"It may take a couple of years after we have it to realize all the possibility of the program," he added. "And, of course, plans are to eventually lead to student instruction in the program."

IN OTHER ACTION taken at an executive session, Monday, the board approved the purchase of five portable classroom units for installation at the high school for use in September when the ninth grade classes housed at Romulus Junior High School will be returning to the high school.

Estimated cost of the five units is $75,000 and the amount was included in the $11.5 million bond issue that was given voter approval last summer.

With better facilities PCHA vote benefits people

The announcement that the People's Community Hospital Authority hospital in Taylor will be built should be good news to Romulus residents.

"Residents in the eastern section of our city will have better hospital facilities available," said Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt. "I'm not criticizing Wayne's Ann Arbor Hospital in the least, but the hospital's often crowded, and residents have to wait for treatment."

"Once the new hospital is built in Taylor, it will mean people will get service a lot quicker."

THE HOSPITAL to be constructed near Telegraph and Haig Roads, should be completed by 1977, and fully operational by 1980.

'It will mean people will get service quicker.'

The capacity for the $23 million facility will be 232 beds.

The PCHA Board of Directors last week approved the letting of bids for the construction of the hospital.

"One thing that pleases me is that there will be private rooms," Troutt said. "I spent almost 16 weeks in the hospital in late 1970 and 1971, and the hardest part was when my wife had to leave me at the end of the each day."

"I THINK it's a lot better for not only the patient, but also his loved ones, if there are private rooms, where people may be able to stay overnight in the case of serious illness."

Troutt was one of the members of the PCHA Board of Directors in 1967, when the board authorized a study on the needs of the authority until the year 2000.

The study indicated a need for a new hospital in the Taylor-Dearborn Heights area, and recommended construction of a more than 200-bed facility by 1980.

Smith acts as community liaison officer in city

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

If you're interested in what goes on police-wise in Romulus, Wayne County Sheriff Ptrl. Donald Smith is the person to see.

Smith, a veteran of nearly 11 years with the Wayne County Sheriff's Department is on duty as a community liaison officer for the sheriff's road patrol in Romulus on an almost daily basis.

"I'm here to handle complaints and answer questions about the service we provide to the city," he said.

ROMULUS PAYS more than $800,000 yearly to purchase the service of four units of the sheriff department for police protection.

The city is promised four full-time patrol cars on its streets 24-hours a day, seven days a week.

Romulus is the first city in the county to use

'It's part of my job to make sure it meets the needs of the community.'

the road patrol as its regular policing force.

"The road patrol has been encouraging cities in the area to contract for this service," Smith said. "It's part of my job to make sure it meets the needs of the community. First because we want to offer the best service possible, and second because Romulus is a showcase for the future of the program."

SMITH SAID his observation of the road patrol's operation to date indicates "it's working for the citizens of the community."

"I'd be the person to handle complaints," he said. "And at this time, I've heard nothing about a patrol unit's inability to answer a call."

"Sure, we get complaints that there is crime in the area — vandalism or breaking and entering — but the residents never have complained about our response to one of their calls."

Since Smith came on duty nearly one year ago, he has seen the sheriff's force double its size in the city. There are 32 patrolmen assigned to full-time patrol duties in the community, including one man per car on the day shift and two men per car on both the afternoon and night shifts.

"FOR THAT number of men, we do a good job," he said.

And part of Smith's duties are to explain that to the community.

"We're the first contract police force in the state of Michigan," he said. "People may have difficulty understanding our operation because of that."

"Part of my job is to go to community groups to speak on topics such as drug abuse and traffic control to insure that people have a better idea of the work."

"I ALSO handle the general complaints, serving as a liaison between the police and community, not only to solve problems, but also to gather information on how we can better cope with the crime that does exist."

"If I hear of a problem area, I'm able to contact the right people inside the sheriff's department to see that the problem is handled correctly, whether it involves an explanation to a taxpayer or a tip that a car should patrol an area better."

THEY BREAK GROUND — Officials of Wayne Federal Savings recently broke ground for a new $60,000 drive-in branch to be constructed on Washington Street in Ypsilanti. Helping with the ground breaking were the builder, Roman Parks (from left); Z. T. Gerganoff, architect; George D.

Goodman, mayor of Ypsilanti; Clare Morrison, Wayne Federal president; John Vallance, chairman of the board; Thor Marsh, director of the board; Mike Malone, Wayne Federal vice-president, and Elizabeth Oltersdorf, assistant vice-president and branch manager at the Ypsilanti facility.

To aid programs

County groups seek volunteers

County-wide social agencies, like the Marines, are looking for men and women to lend their talents in a number of programs designed to combat poverty and other social ills.

Ms Anne duCongo, coordinator for the Wayne County Volunteer Programs, said a number of private and publicly-funded social services agencies are seeking volunteers to help the aged, infirm, youth and mentally-ill. "Hundreds of volunteers throughout Wayne County are hoping to form meaningful work relationships with agencies that will allow them to exercise their altruism," Ms duCongo said.

To help link-up volunteers and the numerous social agencies, the Wayne County Volunteer Programs Coordinator Program has established a program, called "The County Cares — Willing Hands, Committed Hearts," under a $50,000 federal grant from ACTION. The program is administered by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

"For many years, the talents of many persons have gone untapped, largely because those willing to devote time and effort to assist in curing social ills were unable to linkup with the proper agencies. Many excellently conceived smaller agencies are in need of help in a variety of areas. Our program exists as a central data bank to provide information on programs seeking volunteer workers. Age is not a factor," she said.

Among the programs cited are agencies throughout the county, working with retarded children, senior citizens, ex-felons, low-income and families. Seeking help are hospitals, nursing homes, recreational programs, suicide crisis centers, drug counseling, probationers and emergency services.

Skills needed range from clerical abilities to one-on-one counseling.

To register as a volunteer, call "Willing Hands, Committed Hearts," 224-0956. Social agencies seeking volunteers are requested to call Ms duCongo at 224-0954.

PNA to present grants for college

The Polish National Alliance (PNA) Lodge 2984 of Sumpter Township will be awarding 10 students from Belleville, New Boston, Ypsilanti and the township with more than $4,000 in educational scholarships this year.

PNA President Sylvester Blazak said that the funds for the fourth annual scholarship presentation will come from the group's perpetual fund, established by the organization through contributions of members and businessmen in the area.

Honor society inducts 64 Belleville students

Sixty-four students from Belleville High School recently were inducted into the school's chapter of the National Honor Society (NHS).

The group was rated on their leadership, citizenship, scholarship and service before being invited to join the nationwide high school academic organization.

The students inducted were: FRANK BANOTAI, David Barber, Kathy Bassett, Cheryl Batzer, Cathy Beis, Martin Books, Tom Bowles, Larry Branam, Gregory Brown, Mary Bruin, Sher Buckner, Albert Capili and Cindy Ciotte.

NHS members on hand for the induction were Mark Fogarty, Sherri Gatto, Sue Koski, Rhonda Overman and Cynthia Palmer.

The ceremony included a musical presentation of contemporary melodies by the Belleville Jazz Band.

Scouts exceed fund's goal

A sustaining membership drive, recently conducted in the Huron District of the Boy Scouts of America, has exceeded the campaign goal by almost 100 per cent.

Leo Kalota, sustaining membership enrollment chairman and vice-president of Manufacturers National Bank in charge of the Romulus branch, said the $2,000 goal in sustaining membership enrollments was exceeded by $900. A plaque in recognition of the success of the campaign was presented to Kalota.

Funeral rite held for Romulus man

Funeral services were held last week at St. John's Lutheran Church in Taylor for a 23-year-old Romulus man who died in a motorcycle crash on Okinawa.

Sgt. Carl Brett of 12124 Inkster Rd., died of multiple head, chest and neck injuries in a crash on the island on March 7.

A 1969 graduate of Romulus High School, Sgt. Brett was a member of the 10th Special Forces (Green Berets) B Company. He had been stationed at Kadena Air Base on the island at the time of the accident.

His cousin, Airman Sharon Johnson, also stationed on Okinawa, accompanied the sergeant's casket to the United States serving as his military escort.

Sgt. Brett was completing one year of overseas duty prior to his return to his home base at Ft. Devend, Mass.

He was employed at Header Products Inc., in Romulus prior to joining the Army in 1970. He re-enlisted for an additional four years in October.

According to Capt. Charles Aycock, a member of an infantry unit, Sgt. Brett was a great assistance to his unit. A memorial service for the sergeant was held by the special forces group on Okinawa.

Sgt. Brett is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Gall, and two sisters, Patricia Brett and Mrs. Linda Thomson of California.

procedures used by the Wayne County Road Commission to obtain land from property owners abutting the airport.

"He said that there had better not be people appearing before him who did not know their full rights under relocation procedures," Troutt said.

Two weeks ago residents alleged that the road commission had refused to inform them of their rights to relocation funds under federal law when being informed their land had to go for airport expansion.

"I KNOW personally of one woman who was informed of rights at one time, but never received any help from road commission workers," Troutt said. "She was told a man would visit her house to explain her rights, but no one ever arrived."

"It's cases like that we'd like to straighten out."

According to federal law adopted in January, 1971, residents being moved out of their home for necessary improvement of public works projects funded with federal money are entitled to money for relocation.

"The people are entitled to enough money to purchase a house similar to that which they gave up for improvement of projects," Romulus City Attorney William Munger said. "In some cases, a resident could receive up to $15,000 if he or she did not find a suitable replacement for their home for the amount of money given them by those who are taking their land."

IN MOST CASES, according to Troutt, the Wayne County Road Commission neglected to inform residents of the availability of such funds.

Munger said the problem may have been caused by an oversight.

"It could be that the county was operating under state commission law, and wasn't really aware of the rules required for relocation under federal law," he said.

"However, it appears as though the county is attempting to correct that mistake."

MUNGER SAID county agents were scouring Romulus within days of an emotional public meeting protesting further expansion of the airport.

"The public outcry was loud enough to bring Jim Davey back from a trip to Paris to find out what was wrong."

Davey is manager of the Wayne County Road Commission — operators of the Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

Troutt said he still is seeking residents who may have been wronged during airport expansion since 1971.

"EVEN THOUGH they may have moved, they're still entitled to the funds," the mayor added. "I've received about 10 calls from people until now, but the problem is the people are so scattered."

"I hope any one who knows of a resident who lost his land, or who is in danger of losing his land, would notify that person of their rights."

"They could urge them to call city hall, and we'll attempt to straighten things out."

Park work begins

Construction should start soon on developing Elmer Johnson Park on Ozga Road in Romulus.

The Romulus City Council was to have approved the low bid on construction of the eight-acre recreational area last night.

The winning contractor is to begin improvement on the park as soon as weather permits, in an effort to complete the project by July 1 — the deadline for lighting the softball field at the park.

"We're also looking at plans for the new Merriman and Beverly Road parks," Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt said. "We anticipate some progress on those soon after we start work on Elmer Johnson Park."

Troutt said the three recreational acres will include tennis courts and ball fields. They will be operative by July 1.

"We promised the people recreational opportunities," Troutt said. "And I think we can give them some this year."

Beverly workshop will aid parents

Romulus-area parents are invited to a special parent workshop on means for helping children with school, at the Beverly Elementary School, 35408 Beverly Rd., Romulus.

Topics to be covered in the four-week long workshop include: "How to listen to your child," "How to get your child to listen to you," "How you can help your child get the most out of school," and "What can you do to help your child succeed."

Each class session lasts two hours, either between 1:15 p.m. and 3:15 p.m. or 7 p.m. and 9 p.m.

Information on the workshop can be obtained by calling the school at 721-4166.

City's engineers to study drains

Morris Levine Associates, the city's engineering firm, will be conducting the study on the Huron River to determine if a proposed storm drain intercept can be built.

Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt said the city's engineering firm would be conducting the $60,000 preliminary study as soon as it knows what must be learned about the Huron River's ability to handle storm run off from the City of Romulus and Huron Township.

The study is preliminary to construct a $14 million storm drainage system for Romulus and Huron which would send water to Lake Erie through the Huron River system instead of through a series of artificial channels with outlets from Lincoln Park to Gibraltar.

ENGINEERS must determine if the extra flow from Romulus and Huron can be handled by the Flat Rock dam at the end of the river.

"Huron Township Supervisor George Moore and I met with Wayne County Drain Commissioner Charles N. Youngblood to draw up a plan of action for our proposal," Troutt said. "Youngblood said he would be sending a letter to us to inform us what he needed before he would give the go-ahead on constructing the new system."

Officials of the city and township maintain that the new system, if constructed, would save residents money in the long run.

include portions of Joan, Hyde Park, Central Loraine, Cordell, Homefield, Birchdale, New Castle, Ball, Hunt, Irma, Park Place, Vinewood and Heyer.

ALSO INCLUDED in the local road paving project are portions of Haskell, Mary, Gover, Whitehorn, Gabriel, Smith, Ronald, Biddle, Washington, Shooch, Homefield, New York, Cleveland, California, Burton, Dodge, Hollywood, Farnum and Leroy.

Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt said he is confident work on the program will start as soon as the weather permits, providing the council approves the letting of bids.

He emphasized that work on the program will not be financed by special assessments on the part of homeowners. "Other communities charge homeowners so much per foot of property for having their roads paved," Troutt said. "It proves to be costly to the individual homeowners."

Ed board picks the name for new junior high school

The Romulus Board of Education has chosen a name for the new school to be constructed in the district. It will be called North Junior High School.

The junior high school and two elementary schools are being built with the funds from the $11.5 million bond issue.

Also approved at Monday night's meeting was the request for new light control curtains for 12 rooms at Harrison Elementary School at a cost of $176 per room less a discount for volume order and for six film projectors for the high school, junior high and Cory and Hayti elementary schools. Cost of the projectors is $595 each.

The school board also authorized asking for bids on equipment to replace the hot water system at Romulus Junior High School.

Hospital construction begins

Construction of Belleville Memorial Hospital began this week, after the Michigan Department of Health approved plans for the $6.8 million facility.

Health department officials made a study of the proposed 125-bed hospital that will be constructed on a 60.1 acre land site at Sheldon and Savage roads. The land recently was purchased for $332,145.

Development rise seen

Van Buren Township officials are predicting a sharp increase in the number of proposed developments in the township, following the recent expiration of its moratorium on zoning requests.

Officials said that upcoming developments involve residential, commercial and industrial areas of the township with several residential proposals scheduled for presentation to the Van Buren Township Planning Commission.

37 students suspended

Thirty-seven Belleville High School students will miss from one day to two weeks of school this semester, after being involved in fights at the school last week. Some students also may face expulsion.

The fighting, termed mostly racial by Van Buren School Supt. Dale E. Kaulitz, prompted the closing of school for four days last week; a meeting with parents, students and teachers, and an announcement of stricter enforcement of regulations.

Officials eye senior lunch

Van Buren officials have received a verbal commitment from the director of the Wayne County Nutrition Program on the funding of a hot lunch program for senior citizens in Belleville and Van Buren Township.

Police warn residents

Sumpter police are warning residents to be on the look out for a former resident wanted in connection with the murder of another resident and believed to be in the area.

Herman Lee Lewis, a dark-complexioned black, is 38 years old, 6 feet-3 inches tall and weighs 196 pounds. He is believed to returned to the area after he left following the killing, Sumpter Police Sgt. Jerry Cox said.

Center to get funds

Van Buren Township's proposed counseling center for federally subsidized homeowners soon may become a reality.

According to the township treasurer, Ralph Hedman, funding for the center, which will provide advice as well as neighborhood and family services, should be forth coming from the federal government.

Millage election set

After the recent defeat of a two-mill school millage proposal, the Van Buren Public School District Board of Education decided to schedule another special election to request the school tax boost.

At a special meeting Monday night, the board of education approved a resolution to schedule another election on May 8.

Hart and Griffin differ

Public opinion leans to capital punishment

By TOM OCHILTREE
Enterprise-Roman Washington Bureau Chief

If the U.S. Senate is any judge, the title of American public opinion is changing when it comes to the emotional and controversial subject of capital punishment.

This change may be accounted for by the high level of street crimes and "civic terrorism" of our day, including the commission of the most serious crimes in the name of extremist political organizations.

Whatever the reason more voices are being raised all the time calling for a return of "old Sparky"—the electric chair. This is in marked contrast to the widely held view of a few years ago that capital punishment did not deter crime but did tend to brutalize our whole society including our instruments of government.

THE SENATE by a 54 to 33 vote recently approved legislation to require the federal government to put to death citizens convicted of certain categories of crimes.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., voted for the bill which had strong White House backing. Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., was one of the leaders in 'The death penalty will not inhibit a vicious man'

the unsuccessful fight to prevent Senate passage of the measure. Hart declared: "The death penalty will not inhibit a vicious man—it will not return to life someone who has been murdered."

The positions taken by Griffin and Hart were noted with particular interest since Michigan, back in 1846, was the first state in the union to abolish capital punishment.

Traditionally, Michigan residents always have looked upon that action by their state with particular pride since it seemed to prove their own progressive and humane view of the world in contrast to Indiana and other neighboring states where executions were carried out with little or no public protest.

NOW, IN MICHIGAN itself, some attitudes are changing. State Rep. Kirby Holmes of Macomb County currently is leading a petition drive to get the question of capital punishment placed on the ballot.

Presumably, the action taken by the Senate in Washington will have an impact in Michigan, but it is difficult to determine just how much.

A good many observers think in this case it is not so much the senate leading public opinion as it is public opinion pushing the Senate.

The last execution in the United States took place in 1967. For a time it seemed probable that the entire country, following Michigan's long-time lead, would bring the era of the electric chair and the gas chamber to an end.

THIS WAS PART of Hart's argument on the Senate floor. He said it would be an unpleasant, regressive thing if 1976, the 200th anniversary of the birth of this country, found capital punishment restored to its old place instead of abolished forever.

Hart's hope for abolition appears to have little chance of being realized regardless of what congress does to the bill dealing with federal crimes.

Since 1972 some 20 states have enacted mandatory death penalty statutes of various types. According to one recent count, 71 persons now are pacing cells in death rows in 12 states.

All these new state statutes and the bill approved by the Senate are designed to meet objections raised by the U.S. Supreme Court in 1972 to the way the death penalty was administered in the past.

By a 5 to 4 vote the high tribunal said it was unconstitutional to execute a prisoner when the sentence was imposed erratically at the discretion of a judge or jury.

THERE WAS NO uniformity to the way capital sentences were pronounced, the court pointed out. Some people—generally the black, the poor and those with little influence—went to the chair for crimes for which others received relatively light prison terms. So far as the condemned man was concerned, the court held, this constituted "cruel and unusual punishment" since he would have to pay a price, his life, which others would escape.

The new state laws and the Senate bill are based on the assumption that capital punishment is constitutional if imposed in a mandatory way for a certain specified list of crimes.

At this time the fate of the Senate bill is far from certain. The measure went to the House where it was referred to that chamber's judiciary committee, already straining under the work load involved in the impeachment investigation of President Nixon.

As we see it
Romulus charts course against crime, blight

Donald Smith's assessment that every citizen has a role in fighting crime deserves further comment.

We agree wholeheartedly with Romulus' community liaison officer for the Wayne County Sheriff's office, and in particular, his reminder that the best anti-crime weapon is the telephone.

When a citizen detects an act of crime taking place, the safest move to keep our streets and homes safe from crime is to report the incident. Just pick up that telephone and call the police or sheriff's office. They'll do the job that must be done.

Smith said "One call from a concerned neighbor will stop a burglary. If that person turns his head from the incident taking place, then the chance of solving the burglary is practically nil."

In essence, every person is armed with a peaceful weapon against crime. The telephone is that weapon. By supporting the effort to curb rising home burglaries, one day you might save yourself the agony of coming home to find that your own little castle has been burglarized.

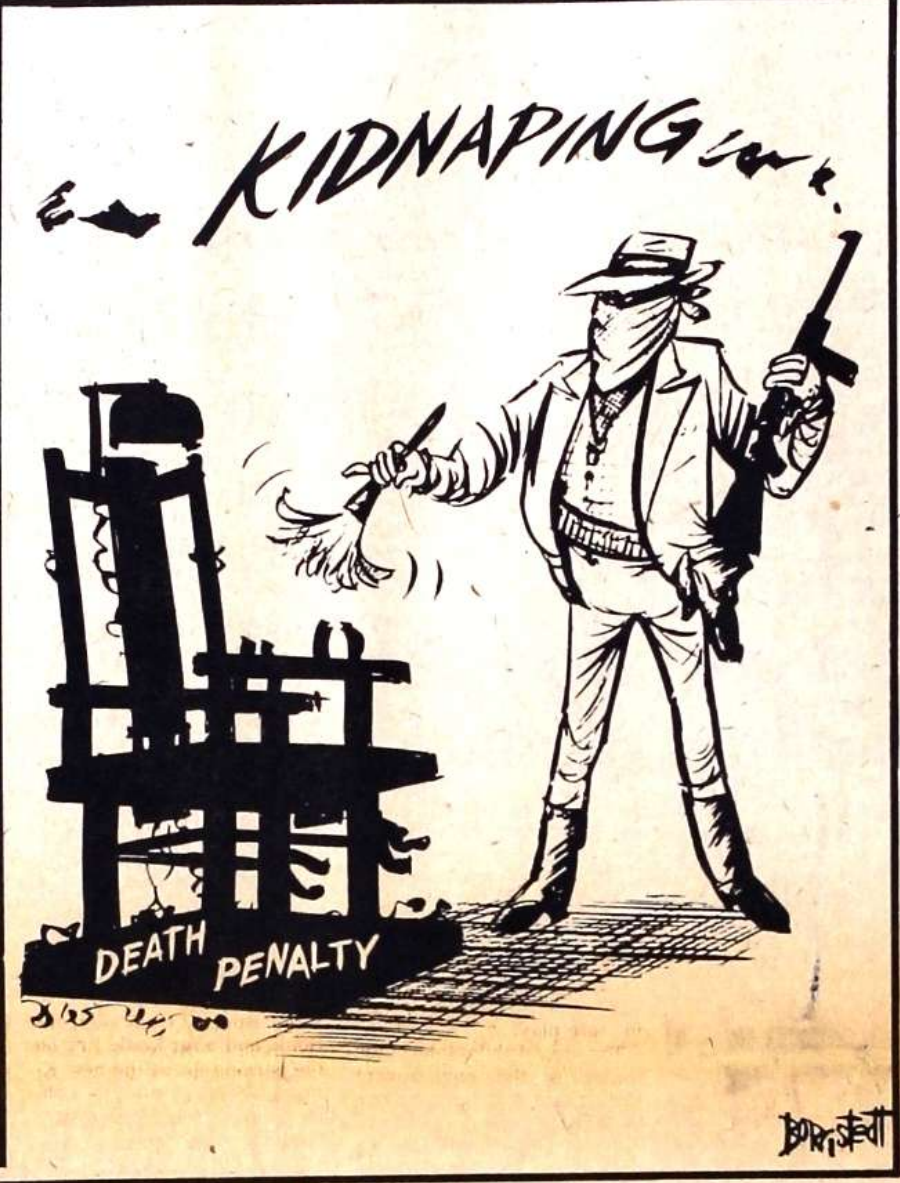

On another subject, Mayor Terry Troutt's war against blight also deserves comment.

The mayor said unless Romulus citizens start cleaning up the blight around their homes and businesses—they'll be taken to court.

The crackdown on blight will begin with a letter campaign, urging citizens to support the city's clean-up campaign—and with two weeks to do the job.

The mayor also warns: "After the official notice, the citations will come. Even if it means standing room only crowds at the courthouse. There are a lot of people who love this town and who take pride in the future that awaits us. As we reach for that better Romulus, it means cleaning up the mess around some of our homes and businesses..."

We also urge the same course of action throughout Western Wayne County. Enforcing a blight code might hurt a few friends, but as the Romulus mayor said: "I'm telling my inspectors that no one gets a break...everybody cleans up or else."

A woman's right

To the Editor: Last month The Associated Newspapers editorially complimented a Westland group's campaigning for a repeal of a law which allows a woman, within certain medical restrictions, to have an abortion in this state. Your newspaper further endorsed the repeal of this act.

I too believe in the beauty of life. A necessary part that beauty encompasses a certain quality or condition of life which encourages a person to know love and in turn give love. A child needs to be wanted and loved if that child is expected to reciprocate these emotions.

It seems that our society has difficulty dealing with the problems of its "wanted" members these days. I wonder if we should complicate the issue by asking a woman to bear, not only the burden of carrying a "mistake", but also to rear the unwanted? Or are we still of the consciousness that we must pay for our mistake even if it means that not only the mother will suffer, but the child as well?

History has proven that legislating morality has been a failure in this country. Prohibition in the 30's curtailed the drinking activities of our nation about as well as the marijuana laws of the 70's have succeeded in preventing the drug's use. Laws prohibiting abortions throughout the world have not prevented millions of women from seeking out these illegal means to terminate an unwanted pregnancy. Does society really believe that anti-abortion legislation will prevent women from receiving illegal abortions, many of which will be done within a "back alley" environment?

Hopefully, my child will be planned and wanted. I would like to have the same freedom in choosing to bring a child into the world as I would to terminate the unwanted pregnancy. I respect a woman's right to this choice. I oppose a law (primarily instigated and voted upon by those who do not share the burden or concern) which denies me this choice.

One firm 'netted' $96 million
Bureau wages crusade against fraud

The caller was offering the Detroit doctor a unique investment opportunity.

He represented an estate in the Bahamas which owned more than 200,000 shares of AT&T. The shares had to be sold, but to put them all on the market at once would force a sharp drop in the price. Therefore, they were being sold privately below the market price. They could be bought by sending a check to a bank in the Bahamas.

The doctor smelled a rat and called the Michigan Corporation and Securities Bureau. The bureau investigated, found out the operation was a fraud, and closed it down.

IT WAS JUST one of the many cases which passes through the bureau in a year. While each case of fraud is different, Bureau Director Hugh Makens says the basic ingredients have been the same for hundreds of years.

"There is the appearance of respectability, the claim that only a limited number of whatever is being sold is available and the need for speed in closing the deal," he says.

"Sending the money to a bank in the Bahamas is no different than sending it to a post office drop box. But it sounds better."

Makens has headed the bureau for two years and served on the staff of the Federal Securities and Exchange Commission for four and one-half years before that.

"INVESTORS ARE taken by greed or by unsophistication," he says. "They simply are out talked and outthought. They get caught up in a fever generated by the seller making the person want to purchase."

Not all fraudulent schemes are as blatant as the AT&T stock deal and not all start out intended to be frauds, he says.

growing bigger," he says. "If anybody is called about investing in such a scheme, he should call us. It may actually be an investment in a real oil drilling project, but if the promoter is taking his profit off the top or if he is using the invested money to pay for a well he previously had contracted for, it's illegal."

estimated $96 million nationally before they were stopped. And they advertised in such prominent national publications as Time and the Wall Street Journal — proof that an advertisement in respected publications doesn't guarantee legitimacy.

"A person may be told he can purchase gold or silver on margin for 10 to 33 per cent of the value," Makens says. "If you buy on margin, you must leave the entire amount you are purchasing at the place of purchase."

"What happens if they don't have it, or don't purchase it, or make only a partial purchase for public display? You are out, that's what happens."

MAKENS SAYS the best way to keep away from fraudulent investments is to make sure what you are buying.

"People don't demand information they're entitled to," he says. "Part of that check, if you are interested in investing, should be calling us. If it's a legitimate company, they expect you to ask questions."

And he says to look at the information received.

"A vast majority of fraud involves the intentional omission of facts," Makens says, "not a lie, but a half truth."

'A vast majority of fraud involves intentional omission of facts...not a lie, but a half truth.'

"Frequently they start with a legitimate operator who doesn't know what he's doing or is too greedy," Makens says. "The biggest threat is the operator who sees profits from the front end of an operation, not from services rendered. There is always a new scheme around."

The newest areas to blossom on the fraud scene are the result of two current phenomena — the energy crisis and inflation.

"SMALL OIL AND gas promotions are in these investments as a hedge against inflation.

"There are more opportunities for fraud in that material being sold than in anything else in the market today," he says. "In most cases that investment field is totally unregulated. There are no standards."

LAST YEAR, HE SAYS, an out of state firm pulled nearly $250,000 out of Michigan offering fraudulent commodity options. They were stopped quickly here, but took in an

Streaking news is garbage
Is there no respect left?

By MITCH KEHETIAN

Chum and Helen Stockwell of Belleville wrote a letter to yours truly. With their permission, I share the thoughts of that communique with readers of The Enterprise-Roman.

The Stockwells said they were in agreement with a "news" position taken by Associated Newspapers, and just wanted your editor to know: "It makes us proud to know our community newspaper believes in upholding morality."

When we announced in The Daily Eagle, an Associated Newspaper member, that streaking news is not news—at least to this newspaper group, several Detroit radio stations called for further comment.

MY ANSWER to the inquiring radio newscaster was "We believe people get enough of bad news in their newspapers. If streaking is news, then let the streakers accuse our newspaper group of suppressing the bare facts."

Here at Associated, we find nothing obscene with the human body, be it fully clothed or in a naked form. But we do take exception to the excuse that streaking is a harmless form of protest and individual expression.

Streaking, as everyone must know by now, is the practice of running stark naked, save perhaps for a mask to cover the face and some footwear, in front of a group of people. The more outrageous the setting, the more laudable the streak.

Though some members of the news media view streaking as harmless news reporting, we wish to serve notice to area streakers that they'll have to find some other news media to report their sick streaking feats.

The rock bottom in local news reporting came when a Ypsilanti-based newspaper printed a front page picture of a nude female streaker riding a horse on the Eastern Michigan University campus.

Then came this sickening report from Rome. About 10 American youths streaked across St. Peter's Square. Three of the youths were arrested, after Vatican police fired warning shots.

Is there no respect left?

We thank the Stockwells and others who have called to support our stand against printing streaking news in our newspapers.

In our opinion, streaking is not news, it's garbage. Enough said...

Tax payments fall off in Van Buren district

The collection of 1973 school property taxes, assessed in the Van Buren Public School District, amounted to 73.90 per cent of the total 1973 tax levy as of March 15, according to school district business manager Irvin Von Destinon.

The total school property tax assessment against property owners in the four communities served by the school system amounted to $5,876,543. Of this amount, $4,338,858 has been collected, Von Destinon said.

Property owners are billed in December, 1973, with levy payable until the tax payment deadline of Feb. 28.

A penalty of four per cent is added after the deadline, plus 5 per cent for each additional month or fraction thereof.

The communities served by the Van Buren School District and the amounts of taxes levied along with total taxes collected as of March 15 and percentages of collections are:

—Belleville with $359,098 levied and $325,629 collected, or 90.71 per cent of the tax due;

—Sumpter Township with $422,892 levied and $368,500 collected, or 87.15 per cent due;

—Van Buren Township with $2,595,726 levied and $2,000,000 collected, or 77.05 per cent due;

Head Start uses experiences in class program

REAL LIFE EXPERIENCES — A set of a cow's rib bones might not seem very important, but for youngsters in the Romulus Preschool Head Start Program it's a way of learning through real life experiences. Nicole Huby proudly displays her contribution to the center's program to her fellow classmates.

Give a child an environment where he is free to explore and question, add a bit of experience appropriate to his or her development and the end result is the Romulus Preschool Head Start Program.

The Head Start center maintains three classrooms which have been organized into learning centers where groups of 25 four-and-five-year-olds are prepared for participation in kindergarten in the upcoming school year.

The programs are based on the philosophy that a positive sense of self is a prerequisite to both the respect for others and for learning, according to a spokesman for the center.

CHILDREN are encouraged to like themselves and to respect themselves as well as others as part of the school-oriented instruction, the spokesman added.

The respect concept is developed at the center by encouraging youngsters to share and wait their turns and in safe play.

The second philosophy of the center is the environment idea. Staff members believe that their young charges will develop best within an atmosphere that encourages exploration, questioning and learning by doing.

PARENTS are active participants in the program, assisting as volunteers in the classrooms and as members of the center's committees.

They also assist the staff in developing guidelines for the center, planning experiences for the children and by changing the program to meet the needs of the children.

The end result of the center are children better prepared to begin their educational career and to compete within a scholastic atmosphere with their peers.

Firemen respond to 6 calls

Van Buren Township's Fire Department No. 1, located at Main and Fourth streets in downtown Belleville, responded to six fire calls during February.

The runs involved a house and auto fire, a blaze at the Van Buren Convalescent Home and a tar kettle fire on the parking lot at the new K-mart Store, under construction at Rawsonville Road and the I-94 Expressway.

Kiwanians host Second Annual President's Ball

Close to 200 enjoy dinner and dancing

SIGN IN, PLEASE — The president of the Belleville Kiwanis Club, Bud Stapleton, and his wife, Frances, sign the guest book as they arrive for the club's Second Annual President's Ball Saturday night. They are shown with one of their guests, Floyd Griffith, who attended with his wife, Sally. Others sharing their table for 10 were Division Lieutenant, Governor of Kiwanis Gene Overholt and his wife from Plymouth; the Dale Kaultz and the Lynne Hamiltons.

UNDER THE SHAMROCKS — Among the many active Belleville Kiwanians is Dave Larabell whose wife, Evelyn, was chairman of the decorating committee for this year's Kiwanis President's Ball. With Peggy Chizmar as her co-chairman and other Kiwanis wives pitching in to help, she used a St. Patrick's Day theme for the event. Shamrock mobiles and a fake ceiling in green and white were used along with a white wrought iron gate accented with bright green derbies.

Despite snow-covered roads and a blustery wind Saturday night, close to 200 Kiwanis Club members and their guests danced away the evening oblivious to the elements. The Second Annual Kiwanis President's Ball, held in a beautifully decorated Father Folta Building, began with a cocktail hour and buffet dinner followed by dancing 'til early morning.

Belleville Kiwanis President Bud Stapleton and his wife, Frances, were on hand to greet guests as they entered through a white wrought-iron gate appropriately decorated with bright green derbies, shamrocks and flowers (since the dance theme was definitely Irish.)

Decorating chairman Evelyn Larabell chose a St. Patrick's Day theme for this year's dance and carried out the motif with leprechauns, shamrocks, pots of gold, and gobs of fresh flowers in green and white. She and her co-chairman Peggy Chizmar, were assisted by other Kiwanis wives in carrying out the decor.

The George Teller Combo arrived from Adrian to play for dancing and a number of guests were honored throughout the evening as the group dedicated tunes to birthdays and anniversaries.

Another highlight of the evening was the huge iron cauldron which was spotlighted near the stage. Used as a 'wishing well', the kettle held donations given by dance patrons to assist the Forney Clement Fund which benefits Mott's Childrens Hospital in Ann Arbor. The Belleville Kiwanis Club promised to match the amount donated that evening.

DINNER, THEN DANCING — A buffet dinner followed the cocktail hour Saturday at the Kiwanis President's Ball held in the Father Folta Building on St. Anthony's Church grounds. Kiwanian Ed Hudge and his wife, Mary Anne (left) came from Ann Arbor for the gala event. Olive White (right) and her husband, Gil (partly hidden) were guests of the Manley Baldwins for the evening.

LaMothes welcome first son

Mr. and Mrs. George A. La Mothe of 8031 Belleville Road, Belleville, are announcing the birth of their first son, Shawn Michael, March 12 at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne. The new heir tipped the scales at 10 lbs., 6 1/2 oz. and measured 22 inches in length.

The infant's mother is the former Patricia E. Belanger, daughter of George Belanger who became a grandfather for the 43rd time with Shawn's arrival. The baby is the second grandson of the George B. La Mothes of Olive Street in Romulus.

On hand to welcome their new brother home were his four sisters: Kim, 13, Kathy, 12; Patti, 11, and Toni, nine.

Sayres host Farm Bureau meeting

The Friendly Neighbors Farm Bureau Group met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Sayre on Morton-Taylor Road Wednesday evening, March 20, with eight members and two guests, Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Hasselbach of Van Born Road, present.

Topic for discussion, "The Missing Link in Farm Bureau," a history of the origin of Farm Bureau groups was in charge of the leader, Robert Robson.

Mr. and Mrs. Sayre gave a report on their trip to Washington D.C. followed by a lunch and social hour.

Wilmer Earl is a 'first' for Jacksons

There's a new addition to the Wilmer Jackson household at 29230 Michigan Avenue, Inkster — their baby son, born March 14 at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne. Named Wilmer Earl Jr., the infant's weight was recorded at 9 lbs., 10 3/4 oz. He will have a partner with whom to celebrate in coming years since he arrived on the second birthday of his aunt, Theresa Marie Modzelewski.

The new mother is the former Dorothy Modzelewski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Modzelewski of Romulus. The paternal grandfather is William Jackson of Inkster.

For many months the Meat Board has been working with food retailers interested in providing consumers with more information on the package label through a consumer meat identification program — "Check the Label, Check the Chart, Choose Your Cooking Method." Already standard charts have been revised to include nomenclature changes and recommended cookery methods. In addition, meat identify booklets have been prepared for store handout, and the Board is assisting in the preparation of "consumer education" retail advertising.

LOOKING TOWARD '75 — Carefully noting all the details for this year's Kiwanis President's Ball were John Touse and his wife, Pat. Currently first vice-president of the Belleville Club, John will have his turn next year to plan the annual gala. The Touses were among the official greeters at the door and presented fresh daisies to the ladies as they arrived.

Queen of Kitchen contest deadline is this week-end

Detroit Edison will accept entries for area nominees in its annual Queen of the Kitchen Contest until March 31, according to Kathryn D. Riney, head of residential consumer services for the company.

From written recipes received, 10 women will be chosen as finalists to take part in a Cook-off; each finalist will receive an electrical appliance.

The grand prize is a deluxe range and the "Queen" will have her choice of top-of-the-line models of ranges which will be on display that day. An electric Kitchen Center, a combination mixer, blender and grinder, will be awarded as second prize; and the third prize will be a Super Pot, an eight-quart thermostaticallycontrolled pot used for everything from roasts to stews to canning.

THE CONTEST is open to women who are employed outside their homes and who live within Detroit Edison's Southeastern Michigan service area. They are invited to submit a recipe for a main dish which can be cooked in an hour or less.

Entries must include name, address, place of employment and telephone number, and should be sent to Queen of the Kitchen Contest, 2000 Second Ave., Detroit, Michigan 48226.

Professional home economists and cooks and employees of Detroit Edison and members of their immediate families are not eligible.

Names of the finalists will be announced April 11.

DEADLINE APPROACHES — Patty Graham (left) and Mary Wilbert (right), Detroit area residential consumer services advisers for Detroit Edison, examine the electric Super Pot and Kitchen Center which will be awarded as third and second prizes, respectively, in the annual Queen of the Kitchen Contest now under way for working women in Southeastern Michigan. Deadline for entries is Sunday, March 31.

May bride-elect is 'showered'

LESS THAN two months remain before Becky Hurley of Monroe becomes the bride of Michael La Voy of New Boston. The young couple, busy making last minute preparations for their May 10 wedding, have reserved St. Michael's Catholic Church in Monroe for the ceremony.

And it was in their honor that a miscellaneous bridal shower was given March 17 at the Sportsman's Hall in New Boston. Co-hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Gerald Syer of New Boston and Mrs. Jerome Bruck of Belleville. Close to 200 guests traveled from Adrian, Blissfield, Palmyra, Erie, Monroe, Dearborn, Detroit, LaSalle, and neighboring cities for the party.

Following bingo games, the bride-to-be unwrapped her gifts with help from her future attendants, Barbara and Gail Hurley of Monroe, Kimberly Syer of New Boston, and Mrs. Jerome Bruck of Belleville.

Guests were then served a turkey and ham buffet dinner, husbands of the group being invited to join in the meal. The special sheet cake which centered the table was the work of Shirley Tackett of New Boston, who decorated with entwined hearts and the inscription "Congratulations Mike and Becky." Other decorative touches were at the gift table which featured a colorful parasol and a complete bridal party in dolls.

Mark visits his grandparents

"THIS FIRST plane trip" will go down in Mark Douglas Harden's baby book as having occurred at the tender age of seven weeks. With his mother, Marsha Harden, and her cousin, Connie Holtzclaw of Decatur, Ala., he winged his way northward for a visit with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crow of Hannan Road. And it was Grandpa Crow's initial meeting with his first grandchild (his wife having been a visitor at the time of his birth.)

The threesome flew in from Fort Campbell, Ky., where the infant's dad, Mark Harden, is serving with the U.S. Army and where the baby was born January 24. The guests spent their six-day visit with the Crows and also little Mark's paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Harden of Sheldon Road.

Family marks 13th birthday

IN HONOR of the 13th birthday of their granddaughter, Amy Lou Kravatz, Mr. and Mrs. D.J. Luft of Romulus, entertained 25 guests at dinner, March 17. The hostess used a St. Patrick's Day theme for her table and also for the cake which was served in the family room later in the afternoon.

On hand to celebrate Amy's teen-age debut were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Kravatz, and her two brothers, Greg and Scott, from Melvindale and her great-grandmothers, Mrs. Estelle Winn of Lincoln Park and Mrs. Grace Fritz of Belleville, Ontario.

Other guests included her uncle, aunts and cousins: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fritz with Joy, Kerry and Karen from Warren; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Herbst and daughter, Kelly, from Brighton; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stoddard and sons, Michael and Dennis from Livonia; Mr. and Mrs. John Luft with Cindy and Sharon of Gibraltar; and Howard and Keina Luft of Dearborn.

Birth of twin sons announced

"A TWIN BILL" is being featured these early spring days at the Dennis J. Myszkowski home of 44284 Suffolk Court, Plymouth. The former Belleville couple welcomed twin boys March 7 at Beyer Hospital in Ypsilanti.

The Myszkowskis carried out the "D.M." family initials by naming their sons, Daniel Alan and Donald William. Their first-born, who was titled David Thomas, is three years old. Mrs. Myszkowski is the former Diana Cichonski.

Little Dan weighed in at 5 lbs. - 6 oz. and his twin at 7 lbs. - 8 oz.

Grandparents of the boys are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Myszkowski of E. Huron River Drive in Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. S. Chichonski of Livonia.

Octogenarians feted on March birthdays

By Mrs. Joseph Spring 699-4021

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Warblow of Van Born Road entertained at a surprise party and family gathering on March 16 honoring his mother, Mrs. Catherine (Kate) Warblow of Denton, on her 80th birthday. Among the 50 members present were her three sisters, Mrs. Rose Horton, Mrs. George (Helen) Lindblad and Mrs. Ben (Mary) Stanfel and their respective husbands; a brother, Martin Birk, and his wife, all from Denton; nieces and nephews grandchildren and one great-grandchild, two-year old Jennifer Warblow. The group came from Belleville, Pinckney and Ann Arbor.

Refreshments, featuring a special birthday cake, and an evening of visiting were enjoyed by all.

ANOTHER 80th birthday celebration was held on March 17 at the W. Columbia Avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. Vinton McAtee honoring his mother, Mrs. Hazel Bryan, of Wabash Street.

Present for dinner and a special birthday cake with 80 candles on it, were 40 relatives and friends from Wayne, Belleville, Bryan and Montpelier, Ohio, including a daughter, Bertha Walker.

STILL ANOTHER birthday dinner was held on March 17 at the home of Mrs. B.P. Hopson on Belleville Road honoring her grandson, Mark Hopson, son of the Thornton Hopsons of Birmingham. Present were Mark's sister, Julie, and his maternal grandfather, Jack Byron of Detroit.

MR. AND MRS. Henry Deering of W. Columbia Avenue spent Sunday of last week visiting friends, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Amerman of Jonesville.

ON MARCH 20 Mrs. Leon J. Boldt of Roland Street was hostess at a dessert luncheon entertaining members of the past matrons' club of Orient Chapter No. 77 - O.E.S. of Northville.

SEVERAL MEMBERS of Belleville Assembly No. 49 Order of Rainbow for Girls were guests of Wayne Assembly No. 72 last Thursday evening for an initiatory meeting.

MRS. WILLIAM Graham of Liberty Street has been a patient at Ford Hospital in Detroit having undergone eye surgery.

THE MANY friends of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Richardson of Second Street were sorry to hear of the illness and death of Mrs. Richardson's mother, Mrs. Alfred Holzhauser, while they were spending some time in Florida. Funeral services were held at Roberts Brothers Funeral home on March 19.

MEMBERS of the United Workers of the Tyler Street Community Hall met at the home of Mrs. Lester Heywood of Dearborn on March 21 for their regular monthly meeting.

Remodeling is likely because of shortages

Home modernization outlays, estimated at $22.3 billion in 1973, are expected to reach $25 billion in 1974, a leading building materials journal forecasts.

Rapid expansion of the home improvement market is being spurred by the slowdown of housing starts and mortgage money, along with rising values for existing dwellings, the magazine says.

Fuel shortages also will be keeping more people at home, with more time for repair and remodeling projects.

Silver wedding reception honors former residents

A dinner reception honoring the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bender was held recently at the Carrawee Hall in Flat Rock. The former Romulus couple, now of 29736 Alders Drive, Flat Rock, were married March 5, 1949 in Detroit. The Benders have three children, Ronald of Belleville, and Shelley and Kimberly, at home. Mrs. Bender is the former Kathleen Hay. Mr. Bender has been employed by the Ford Motor Company for the past 20 years.

Hosting the party were Mr. and Mrs. Hazen E. Hay, Mrs. Bender's parents, and Mr. and Mrs. William Wagner, her brother-in-law and sister, all of Romulus; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hay of Allen Park, Mr. Bender's brother and sister-in-law; and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Bender of Belleville, the couple's son and wife.

For the occasion, the bride of 25 years wore a pink chiffon formal gown to which she pinned her corsage of pink rosebuds. Her husband joined her in cutting the four-tiered anniversary cake which centered the main table. Made by the couple's niece, Mrs. James Wagner of Belleville, the cake was decorated with white mums and pink rosebuds.

Benefit needs change

The Veterans Administration (VA) advises veterans not to allow loss of a birth certificate or marriage license to deter them from applying for benefits.

VA officials cited a regulation in effect since October, 1971 under which less formal proof of marriage and birth are acceptable in establishing claims for higher benefits.

A veteran's or his widow's certified statement of marriage is sufficient on applications for compensation and education benefits for veterans, widows and orphaned children, provided neither he nor his wife has been married before, and VA has no contradictory information on file, officials said.

A certified statement now is acceptable regarding birth of a child of a veteran and as proof of age and relationship in disability cases. Before the regulation change, officials said that VA required all statements of marriages and births to be supported by formalized documentary evidence.

Certified statements also are sufficient in death cases where a claimant's statements corroborate those of a veteran in connection with a claim for any VA benefit, officials added.

Firm provides awards

A Romulus High School student, Barbara A. Polka, the daughter of Andrew P. Polka Jr. of 35699 Ronald, is one of 50 sons and daughters of Marathon Oil Company employees honored as the 1974 Marathon Scholars for outstanding academic achievement.

Each student receives $250. A single unrestricted grant of $1,000 is made to the accredited, privately controlled college or university attended by a company's scholar.

In addition, each winner is eligible to apply for a financial aid grant in an amount up to $1,500 a year for four years of undergraduate study.

The 50 students have been selected on the basis of scholastic merit, intelligence, leadership, activities, and potential success in college. Final selection was made by a scholarship committee, composed of three distinguished educators.

The program's objectives are to recognize outstanding students for their high school achievements, to grant economic aid to privately controlled colleges, and to provide financial aid for Marathon employees' sons and daughters to obtain a college education.

Realtors log rise in sales

Despite the energy crisis, rising inflation, tight money and a host of other negative economic indicators, Americans still are on the move, according to statistics by the RELO Inter-City Relocation Service.

With January considered to be the sluggish month for home sales, RELO centers throughout the country reported a 17.1 per cent increase in referrals over figures for January, 1973.

Referrals also were 34.4 per cent for the first three months of fiscal 1974, which began last November.

The number of housing units sold by members of RELO increased by 21.3 per cent, up 11 per cent for the fiscal year.

Lawmen issue 77 violations

The Van Buren Township police department issued 70 traffic violation tickets, including 44 tickets through the use of radar, during February.

Of the violations issued, 35 tickets were processed and fines paid at the township's Violation Bureau, Police Chief John Willet Sr. said.

Police personnel worked 355 hours in February, including about 65 hours on radar and day patrols. Police also investigated 67 complaints received through the Wayne County radio system.

Clinic offers testing

The Sumpter Family Planning Clinic located at 24101 Sumpter Rd., offers many free services to women who want to plan their families. The clinic is operated jointly by the South-eastern Michigan Family Planning Project and the Wayne County Department of Health.

Complete pelvic examinations, cancer detection tests (pap smear and breast examinations) and venereal disease examinations are conducted there. A blood cell test for anemia and a urinalysis are among additional services offered by the clinic.

Counseling by a professional clinic staff member is a major service offered by the family planning program. A physician will assist the patient in the selection of the birth control method best suited to her individual need.

Contraceptive materials are prescribed by the clinic physician and are available at the clinic. Instruction given by a trained nurse on the use of the birth control methods is another important function of the clinic staff.

For a clinic appointment call the Wayne County health department at 721-0200 or 274-2800, ext. 6889, or call 291-4243 on Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

4-H Club honors members

4-H members, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cook of 9569 Morton Taylor Rd., Belleville, leaders of the Highflyers 4-H Club in Belleville, were the recipients of recognition award for their service to the group at the annual Wayne County 4-H Awards Banquet held recently in Westland.

The Cooks' daughter, Connie, was presented with a pin for her showing in the 4-H poultry program.

In attendance at the annual banquet were the club's officers: Sherree Vincent, president; Glorai Rochowiak, vice-president; Kathy Wisniewski, treasurer; and Mariann Adams, secretary.

The club along with all Wayne County 4-H Clubs will be attending the Spring arama, to be held on Friday and Saturday at Westland Center in Westland.

Market to open in center

The grand opening of S.S. Kresge Corporation's newest K-mart Store, the first in Van Buren Township, will be held on April 7.

The 94,000 square-foot food and merchandise facility is located in the new Lakewood Shopping Center, under construction at Rawsonville Road and the I-94 Expressway.

The K-mart Store is the primary tenant of the shopping center, which is the largest commercial development in the history of the township.

The Lakewood Shopping Center is situated on a 20-acre land parcel on the south service drive of the expressway. It is being constructed by Schostak Brothers Co. Inc. of Southfield.

The developer also is planning the construction of a movie theater at the shopping center.

Honor list includes 5 students

Five Belleville students have won recognition as scholars at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo, by being named to the university's dean's list for the winter semester.

The students honored are Anna Alimpich of 44080 Michigan Ave., Ann Teresa Bies of 46545 Willis Rd., Alan K. Patalocco of 605 W. Columbia Ave., David M. Wilkinson of 45271 Venetian Ave., and Ann C. MacDonald of 49110 Denton Rd.

To win the honor, students must have taken at least 14 hours of class work and maintained at least a 3.5 grade point average out of a possible 4.0.

New 'gadgets' aid process learning

Youngsters are learning to read, but not from the standard Tom and Jane books. Another group of students are mastering numbers at a pegged board while still another group is learning to print their names with a little help from a mockup of the alphabet.

No, it's not a first grade class, but a group of kindergarten students at Beverly Elementary School in Romulus.

LEARNING CAN BE FUN—A pegged board covered with numbers might not sound like much fun, but for youngsters in kindergarten classes at Beverly Elementary School the board and its corresponding cards are a fun way of mastering numbers. One youngster tries his hand at matching up the numbered cards with their appropriate numbered peg while three of his fellow classmates cheer him on.

LEARNING THE ALPHABET—Armed with a mockup of the alphabet in upper and lower case, these Beverly Elementary School students begin the task of learning to print their names. Ready to take on the job are

Grants aid in dissemination of employment information

Two federal grants, totaling nearly $29,000 for improved personal services, have been awarded, according to Don Willis, coordinator in Michigan for the federally funded Intergovernmental Personnel Act.

The larger award of $20,467 will assist the establishment of an interjurisdictional job information center where persons can learn about positions with the state, the city of Detroit, Wayne County and or the federal government.

Willis said: "The center, which will be located in the City-County Building in Detroit, will not only make it much more convenient for job seekers, who have had to seek information at four different locations; it should also reduce the cost of recruitment services for the agencies involved."

The lesser award of $8,508 will fund the second phase of a six-state cooperative project which is coordinated by Michigan. The project is designed to train training officers in the use of the newly developed Training Evaluation Guidelines and to convey results and methods of several other projects conducted by the Midwest Intergovernmental Training Committee (MITC).

Training administrators from state and local governments in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio and Wisconsin are participating in the MITC.

"Training administrators have long felt the need for more reliable methods to evaluate the effectiveness of their training programs," Willis said. We believe we now have identified the best tools available and shall disseminate these findings to our colleagues throughout the six-state region."

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

HAROLD REDISKE, JR. — DIRECTORS

All of us know people with a bubbling over personality. Everybody likes them. Did you ever wonder what causes their popularity? What makes these people click?

To start with, they respect the other fellow's opinion. They don't shout or get nasty in a discussion. When they try to convince (and invariably do), they put the other fellow in the picture ahead of themselves. In effect, they say, "Don't you think it is a fact?" ...instead of, "This is a fact and I know I'm right." They let the other fellow do his share of the talking; they are good listeners. When age variance exists, they never say, "I'm older than you, therefore know more than you." They listen to the other fellow's problems; don't minimize the problems by citing, comparing (or exaggerating) their own. They never give unasked-for advice but are ready to give a suggestion when asked. They give subtle praise without evidence of flattery. They have good humor; can and do laugh at themselves; laugh with but not at the other fellow.

Check these traits with the people who possess 'personality plus'. You will find they have most of these good qualities. We know a lot of people like this. We're always glad to meet more of them.

account.

A Wyandotte Savings Bank Checking Account can help you conserve energy. First, when you send checks by mail, you save gasoline by eliminating the need to drive all over town to pay your bills. And when you save gas, you also save money. Then too, you save your personal energy by writing and sending checks by mail.

But on top of that, there are many other good reasons to open a checking account at Wyandotte Savings Bank.

1. WSB offers four different checking account plans including free checking for senior citizens. One is just right for you.
2. Deposits may be made at any WSB office or by mail — and we pay the postage both ways.
3. Every WSB depositor is insured up to $20,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.
4. WSB checks are legal proofs of purchase. An important item to remember at income tax time.

Stop by at any of our offices and open your WSB Checking Account soon. You'll help conserve energy and you'll be doing yourself a favor, too. And remember, Wyandotte Savings Bank has been helping people like you for over 100 years.

ENCHANTED CAST—A poor poet who creates a new world with his rhymes sets the tone for the Romulus High School Choir's production of "Kismet" April 4-6. The musical centers around the poet's daughter and is filled with genies, danger and visions of Arabian nights. Students at the school rehearse a scene from the play. The musical is being presented at the high school, located on Wayne Rd. north of the I-94 Expressway, at 7:30 p.m. Tickets will be sold at the door prior to the three performances.

Hearing will collect opinions on county's proposed tax levy

A second public hearing on a proposal to raise funds for law enforcement in Wayne County by the levy of a special one-mill property tax will be held at the District Court building in Livonia on April 4.

The General Government Committee of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners will conduct the hearing at 7:30 p.m. The court is located at 15140 Farmington Rd. near Five Mile Road.

Commissioner Samuel A. Turner (D-Detroit), the committee chairman, said residents as well as local officials are invited to attend and express their views.

THE SPECIAL levy would require a county-wide voter referendum. It would be placed on the ballot by majority vote of the board of commissioners.

At a hearing on Feb. 14 in Westland, no support for the proposal was expressed. Board Chairman Robert E. FitzPatrick, who suggested consideration of the levy as a means of meeting increased demands for law enforcement funding at both local and county levels, has asked for alternatives.

"We must face the fact that federal funding for a number of criminal justice programs in the county, including several in suburban communities, will expire in the next 18 months," FitzPatrick said.

"UNLESS A NEW method of fund-raising within the county is developed, these programs cannot be continued. I believe that as responsible officials, we should tell the people this now so that they will have an opportunity to let office-holders know whether they want the programs extended and, if so, how they are to be funded," he added.

One mill equals $1 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation. This would amount to $10 per year on property worth $20,000 and assessed at $10,000, the average for residential property in the county.

Van Buren hears cases of tax assessment gripes

The Van Buren Township Board of Review conducted hearings in 25 property tax assessment cases during its recent sessions.

The cases are a decrease in the number of petitions for review filed last year when the board of review sessions were swamped with 75 cases, Van Buren Township Supervisor G. Elton Gollwitzer said.

The township supervisor also acts as the township assessor.

GOLLWITZER said that adjustments in tax assessments were made in two of the 25 cases due to hardships. The most common complaint heard from those who appeared before the review board was about the tax increase shown on the tax assessment roll.

The supervisor said that the tax increase is due not to an increase in the current township millage, which still remains at one mill per $1,000 per assessed property valuation, but to an increase in the state equalization valuation of township property.

The factor, used to compute the state equalization valuation of property in the township, was 2.16 for 1973, an increase over 1972 figures. The factor is determined by state and county taxation bureaus, the supervisor added.

The factor for the 1974 year tentatively is set at 2.20, Gollwitzer said.

WHEN THE factor is determined for the township or any other community, it is used by the taxing authorities as a multiplier — per $100 of assessed property valuation — to arrive at the state equalization valuation for tax assessing purposes.

The supervisor also said

Panel encourages help

Picking up where the Romulus Roman left off last week, the Romulus Police, Fire and Safety Commission has urged residents to "let their fingers do the walking" against crime in the community.

The commission has urged residents to become the watchful eyes against crime in the community and call the Wayne County Sheriff's Department when observing something suspicious in their neighborhoods.

"Criminals won't want to go back into a neighborhood that has watchful eyes because the chances of being caught are greater, if citizens alert the police every time they see something that doesn't seem right."

Last week, the Romulus Roman carried a story from Patrolman Donald Smith, the liaison officer of the Wayne County Sheriff's Road Patrol, urging citizens to dial the police when they spot of suspicious activities, something out of the ordinary "chances of solving burglaries in their neighborhoods. in homes are practically nil," Without police being tipped Smith said.

Jaycees log meal as a hit

A spokesman for the Romulus Jaycees said that the annual "Prayer Supper" was a success.

Held last Sunday, the supper encouraged non-denominational participation by all Jaycees.

Chairman Gordon Silvey said attendance was overwhelming and that the supper was "to emphasize the first line of the Jaycee Creed—faith in God."

Higher fuel costs are pushing up the price of electricity.

We produce most of our electricity by burning coal. The cost of coal is going up rapidly.

Oil and natural gas are even more expensive. And they are in critically short supply.

Almost 1/3 of our electric revenue is used to pay our fuel bill. So the rising cost of fuel is one more reason why the price of electricity is going up.

You can't take electricity for granted anymore, but we'll continue to do our best to provide reliable electric service now and in the future.

Township okays vote boundaries

The descriptions and new boundaries for Van Buren Township's voting precincts were finalized and put into effect last week after more than two weeks of study by personnel in the township clerk's office.

The new precinct boundaries were made necessary after the township board split two of the township's seven voting precincts, Van Buren Township Clerk Patricia Cullin said.

They were made to meet state election laws, which limit the maximum number of voters per precinct to 1,400. Increases in the township's population also spurred the changes.

The fourth precinct is the only voting district with more than 1,400 registered voters. The second precinct has more than 1,200.

Due to the increase in the number of voting precincts, there is a need for additional election workers, she said. Applicants interested in the position, which pays $3 per hour at election time, can apply at the clerk's office, 46425 Tyler Rd., or call 699-2001.

Take care of your grass

Prepare for lawn beauty

By LUCY WIESEND
News Editor

With thermometers dipping below freezing this spring and new record low temperatures being recorded, Western Wayne County residents aren't thinking about the care of their lawns.

GOOD LAWN — In warm weather, bluegrass, fescues and perennial ryegrasses should be mowed rather tall and be treated with non-burning, long-lasting ureaform fertilizers, the secret of a good lawn and a good life.

Green lawns help to maintain homes

Occasionally, a good lawn is said to be wasteful, and hardly in the best interests of the environment. Alarmists even suggest that its fertilization pollutes ground water and runoff, contributing to eutrophication (smothering growth in lakes and streams).

But is it a waste of effort to plant improved lawngresses, and to care for them properly?

Quite the opposite is the case. Lawns benefit man not only esthetically, by mellowing the landscape and keeping the family out of the Grasses aid soil saving

Grasses have long been recognized for their excellent soil-holding ability against ravages of wind and water erosion. Soil lacking plant cover is easily washed from even the slightest slope to end up in streams and lakes as silt.

Silt-filled streams, lakes and reservoirs destroy recreational uses, add to water pollution and create flooding problems. Grass sod holds soil in place and a healthy turf encourages rapid movement of rain water into the soil.

green lawn this summer. And lawn beauty will be more important than usual to people this year, he added.

THE ENERGY crisis that has touched the lives of everyone in the nation, also will affect the way people will feel about their lawns, he said.

"The energy crisis will affect us all this year. Even though the oil embargo has been lifted, gasoline will cost from 60 to 70 cents per gallon this summer," he said. "So people will be taking fewer trips."

Rising costs will affect how people feel about their back yards since people will be spending more time there.

"People also will be looking at their neighbor's yards as they compare lawns, who had the earliest tomatoes or who has the biggest trees."

SPEAKING before the Wayne Chamber of Commerce, Draheim said: "Spring is here. Even though it snowed this week, people should get ready to work on their lawn."

The first thing a homeowner should do is mow the lawn down to one inch in length.

"A close shear at this time of the year won't hurt the grass, but will allow the homeowner to get rid of the garbage that has accumulated in the lawn such as dry leaves," he said.

Thatch, a layer of dead plant material—including grass, leaves and twigs—accumulates on the soil surface over the winter.

DRAHEIM warned Wayne Chamber of Commerce members who attended the Thursday luncheon meeting at the Red Apple Restaurant in Wayne that dethatching is necessary only if you have at least 1/2 inch of material collected above the soil.

For early spring green-up and growth, remove the dead debris by dethatching, which is a vigorous once-over with a rake, according to a Michigan State University (MSU) Extension Service turfgrass specialist. Stones and metal objects that could damage the lawnmower also are removed by raking.

"Don't dethatch, if you have a shallow root system," Draheim also warns. "If you do dethatch with a shallow root system, you literally will be ripping the lawn to pieces."

Once you mowed the lawn and dethatched it, if necessary, its time to fertilize.

PROPER fertilization promotes healthy turf and reduces weed problems.

"If you fertilize properly, you don't need to seed," Draheim added.

For sunny areas, fertilize April 1, May 1, July 1, June 1 and Sept. 1, the horticulture agent said. For shaded areas fertilize once or twice a year.

Most lawns which contain Kentucky bluegrass will require at least three fertilizer applications per year, a spokesman for the MSU Extension Service said. Michigan lawns respond best to two of these applications in the spring of the year and one application in the fall.

DAMAGED portions of a lawn should be spot-seeded early to make the spring growing season as lengthy as possible. Seeding grass on frost-pitted soil often is effective, according to the Fertilizer Institute.

But sloppy soils, unworkable as they thaw, make a poor seedbed, the institute added. Wait until the ground dries enough so that its surface can be scratched with a rake, loosening the soil enough to catch the grass seed.

"The best time to reseed is in the fall because of the temperature," Draheim added. "If you plan to use sod, make sure it is moist before spreading."

"The sod must be damp and the dirt it is being applied to also must be damp."

Roses can be bright and a new pleasure

After a winter of political turmoil, mid-east wars and economic crises, most of which we don't understand and distrust everyone connected with them anyway, the relieving beauty of spring now is upon us.

To many gardeners, this season means the exciting adventure of new roses to purchase, plant and care for. As these plants quicken into growth with the strengthening sun and warming weather, there comes the pleasure of the first sight of new and different blossoms, hitherto known only from rose catalog pictures, or perhaps some blooming plants in one of the all-America accredited public rose gardens.

Of the multitude of new roses offered each spring always the question arises, which of them are the best and worth the asking price. Most of us are not specialists and grow roses for the pleasure of enjoying the blooms of the modern hybrids, but when we buy, we do want those which will perform to our satisfaction.

Without question the best of the crop of new varieties and the safest buys for the ordinary gardener and specialist as well, are the carefully tested all-America Rose Selection (AARS) award winners.

BON BON — One of three roses chosen to receive the all-America awards is the Bon Bon, a floribunda. The rose is one of the tested varieties of roses available in the country. The flower is grown in 23 test gardens during a two-year period to find out what its faults and weaknesses may be.

INDOOR PLANT GARDEN — A large brandy snifter can become an indoor garden with a dash of dirt, green plants and water. The terrarium, a bottled garden, is a new way

Planter brings green to indoor lifestyles

Anytime is the right time to start a terrarium. It's a way to bring the beauty of greenery to indoor life, the year-round.

A simple way to avoid the problems of low humidity in the home is to grow plants in a controlled environment called a terrarium, or bottle garden. This can be any clear glass or plastic container, like a wine or distilled water jug or an oversized brandy snifter.

With proper preparation and plant choices, this garden in a glass container is nearly maintenance-free. However, whether you are a beginner or an experienced green-thumber, you should check a detailed terrarium guide. It will help you prepare the soil correctly and select the right plants.

The guide contains a plant and herb identification chart. In addition, there's a plan for building a square-shape terrarium, in case you prefer a larger planting area.

Watering, fertilizing, transplanting, the care of sick plants and pest control—they're all covered in more than 100 pictures.

THE FINISHED PRODUCT — A group of students in the Building Trades I class at Romulus High School pose with one of 13 storage sheds constructed during class periods. A two-year program, the building trades class teaches the students how to construct structures as part of the class instruction. Their next project will involve a three-bedroom home.

As class project

Students construct sheds

It was a bit of a problem getting the 13 storage sheds to their new homes, but Junior Block solved the problem for students at Romulus High School by donating his time and truck to assist in the moving project.

The students, all members of the Building Trades I class at the high school, constructed the sheds as part of their class instruction.

The program is a two-year class in which students learn the ins and outs of the building trades profession.

Along with constructing the sheds, the 11th grade students are learning how to build a home and will construct a garage in the spring.

The Romulus Board of Education recently approved the construction of a three-bedroom home by the class during their second year.

However, the Building Trades Advisory Committee is looking for a suitable lot that can be used for the planned construction.

Anyone knowing of a lot available for the project is asked to contact the Building Trades instructor at the high school at 941-2170.

Ford bill to ease payroll tax

Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District) is sponsoring legislation to reduce the Social Security payroll tax by nearly one-third for low and middle-income taxpayers.

The reduction would be achieved by increasing the taxable wage base from $13,200 to $25,000, and by providing for a three-way split of the payroll tax among employers, employees and the federal government.

"As now constituted, the Social Security tax is unfair and regressive," Ford said. "It puts the greatest burden on those who can least afford it — the low and middle-income taxpayer."

"Of the estimated 80,000,000 Americans who will file income tax returns this year, more than half will have paid more Social Security taxes than income taxes. For example, a married couple with two children, earning $7,000, will pay a federal income tax of $406, and a Social Security tax of $409.50."

Congressman Ford cited a growing unrest among taxpayers and a growing concern in Congress over the unfair distribution of the nation's tax burden.

Carnival plans ready

It's planned to be a bit of work for some people and a lot of fun for other people at Edgemont Elementary School's first school carnival.

From 5:30 to 9 p.m. on Friday has been reserved for the fun and games at the Belleville school.

Students and parents will have an opportunity to stop the teacher, or do a little fun gambling at the wheel of fortune and color gamble.

Other activities include a cake walk, jarco, roll down, car racer, penny pitch and used toys and games.

FOOD-WISE, there will be everything from hot dogs and pizza to popcorn and cotton candy.

There will be cartoons to watch, a chance to see yourself on closed circuit television, and a place to have your picture taken in a crazy photo.

For the little people there will be the ole' fishin' hole, a duck pond, a lollipop tree and bean bag toss.

Heading up the carnival and seeing that the various committees of teachers and parents are set to go are the chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. John Touse.

Romulus woman joins budget panel of UWM

A Romulus woman, Dorothy M. Rush, has been named to the budget committee of the United Way of Michigan (UWM).

Mrs. Rush of 29620 King Rd., is a member of Women for the United Foundation. She is a former vice-president of the Metropolitan United Community Services and chairman of the Wayne division.

She is a former co-chairman of the United Foundation Healthfairs.

Jules E. Guillaumin, committee chairman, said that Mrs. Rush would be assigned to a panel at UWM's annual budget conference to be held April 30-May 1 at the Kellogg Center at Michigan State University.

Each panel will review the budget presentations of UWM member agencies and then make recommendations for the funding of the agencies during 1975.

UWM has 23 health and social service agencies as members. It helps plan programs and provides communication services and financial support for them. Member agencies include the Kidney Foundation of Michigan, Michigan Heart Association, Leader Dogs for the Blind, the Arthritis Foundation and others fighting disease and social ills.

Funeral rite held for burn victim

Funeral services were held at the Robert Bros. Funeral Home Inc. in Belleville, for a 53-year-old Van Buren Township man who died in Ann Arbor's University Hospital of third degree burns March 19.

Mr. Hisey and his wife, Margaret, 49, were injured when the furnace at their summer cottage near Brooklyn exploded. Mrs. Hisey is listed in fair condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor, with burns on 25 per cent of her body.

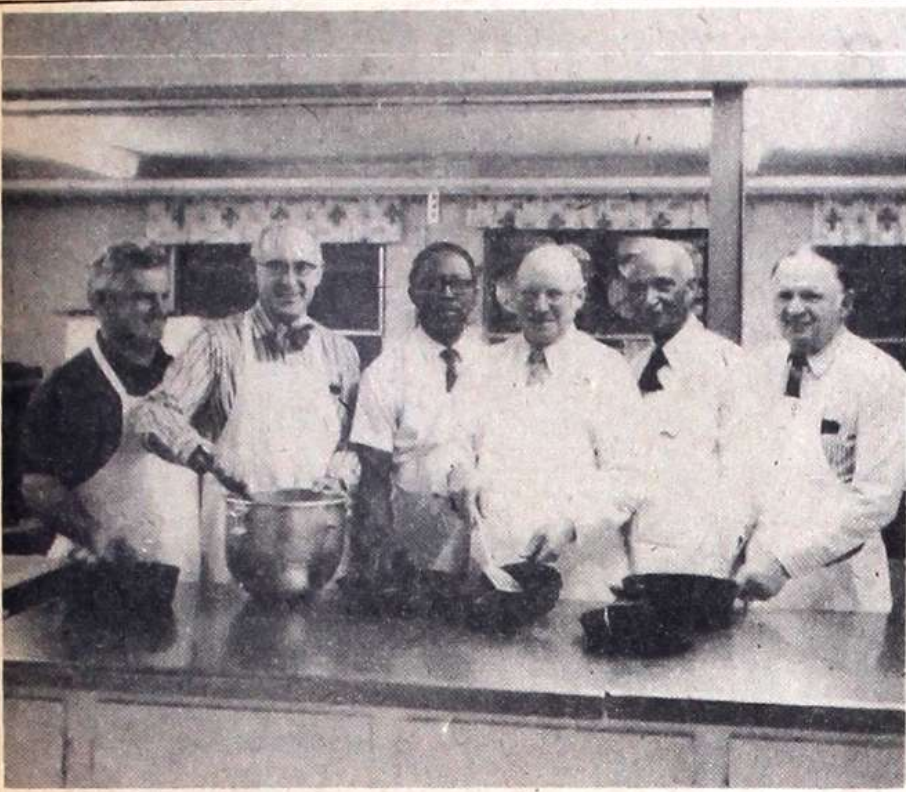

Friends reported to police that the couple went to their cabin to prepare it for the summer and decided to stay all night.

Hisey was in the process of lighting the stove when it exploded injuring him and his wife.

Hisey and his wife managed to escape before the cabin was destroyed. A passerby took them to Foote Memorial Hospital in Jackson. They were transferred to the Ann Arbor hospitals.

Police officials initially had worked on reports that the Hiseys were injured at their Van Buren Township mobile home, but were unable to locate police or fire reports to confirm this.

FLAPPING THOSE JACKS—Members of the Romulus Kiwanis Club are getting ready for their April 27 "Pancake Festival," slated for the Progressive Hall, 11580 Ozga Rd., Romulus. Committee members Jack Trumble (from left), Davis Draper, Gideon

Pettway, Jr., John B. Lewkowicz, Earl Lamd and Hazen Hay limber their wrists for cooking from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. on the flapjack day. Proceeds will go to city improvement projects. Lewkowicz is chairman of the event.

OUR NEW ADDRESS

BELLEVILLE, MICH.

To find God

Lent is a season for introspection

Lent is a time when Christians should look within themselves to find love of God and man, according to Fr. Joseph F. Kernosek, pastor of St. Aloysius Church in Romulus.

Fr. Kernosek looks into the three ways man can achieve a closer reunion with his Creator, making a fruitful season of Christianity.

The season of Lent is a new way of life. New because we find ourselves with new problems every day. Lent is the same. We are not the same. At the end of Lent, we are either closer to Christ or further from him. There is no neutrality.

This is a new way of life because we aim at making his inner sacrifice our own. We become converted to Christ, our Savior and Redeemer.

It says in Luke 6:27-38 that "be merciful as your Father in heaven is merciful. Jesus said: Love your enemies, do good to those who hate you; bless those who curse you and pray for those who maltreat you...Do to others what you would have them do to you... Love your enemy and do good... then will your recompense be great..."

MAN MUST live his earthly life. At times, this life is hard and very difficult. There are temptations, sickness, suffering, trials, misfortunes, heartaches, pain, physical and spiritual and emotional, so man lives in this world, like a ship at sea in a storm.

When Christ rode with his apostles in the boat, a storm came up, but Christ slept. The apostles feared, they would drown, so they awoke Him. We, too, can call on Christ to help in the storms of life.

Christ gave us an example of how to live the good life. He told us: "He who wishes to come after me, let him come follow me and carry his cross." In the gospel mentioned above, Christ tell us to love God above all things, even love God above our parents, spouses, children, friends and every material thing.

I am sure we are good to ourselves. We deny ourselves nothing. Likewise, we should treat all men, the same way, regardless of race, color, creed, station in life, because we are created by God.

FINALLY Christ tells us: "Love your enemies, do good to those who hate you, bless those who curse you, pray for those who persecute you. Give to all who beg from you. If you serve those who are your friends, and indeed expect to be repaid, what merit, or reward do you expect from God. Give and expect no return. Let God reward you."

Christians, and even many others, claim that this advice is difficult and very hard to do, even to understand, but it is more difficult for us to realize this in our own lives.

We cannot use an evil means to gain a good end. The end does not justify the means. If we do evil, if we break God's commandment, then God must punish us, like He must punish non-believers, who act the same way.

Because we are Christians, this does not excuse us from following Christ's great command. "Love one another as I have loved you." How has He loved us? St. John in his gospel tells us, that God sent His only Son to suffer and die for our sins. That is how much Christ loved us.

DO YOU love God? Prove it. Do you attend service every Sunday, or do you find every pretext to skip church. How do you treat your wife or husband, relatives, friends, neighbors and fellow workers? Do you treat them as you want to be treated.

Lent is a time for reflection. Are you being drawn nearer to Christ, His way of life, His philosophy, his gospel-or away from Christ. You have one life. Live it well. You won't get a second chance. You have one soul. Save it. It will be too late after death. Lent is a preparation for celebrating the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead.

Advisory councils forms task forces for services in substance control

The Substance Abuse Services Advisory Council is seeking volunteers to serve on working task forces.

The task forces will be composed of advisory council members and others selected by the council and appointed by Robert Fitzpatrick, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, and Detroit Mayor Coleman A. Young.

The advisory council was established under provisions of State law to aid in the development of a comprehensive plan for providing substance abuse services, including alcohol, in Wayne County and to make recommendations to state and local officials in regard to the designation of a local coordinating agency to administer state and federal funds allocated for substance abuse programs.

The advisory council has created task forces in the following areas: the criminal justice process; pharmacies, laboratories and hospitals; youth services and juveniles; licensing; education and training; finance; technical assistance; research; data systems and evaluation; treatment modalities; supportive services; after care and administration and coordination.

Co-chairmen of the council, Benjamin Davis, and Dr.

Lowell McCoy have asked that persons wishing to serve on task forces submit brief resumes of their education, training and work experience in drug and related areas to the Substance Abuse Services Advisory Council, 500 Kales Building, 76 W. Adams, Detroit 48226 by April 8 and indicate in order of preference which task forces they would like to serve on.

Jaycees to give funds to sports campaign

The Romulus Jaycees have earmarked the proceeds from their upcoming Millionaire's Party for the Romulus Sports Fund Development Committee.

Scheduled for 8 p.m., May 4 at the Romulus Progressive Hall, the party will feature entertainment and "big stakes" gambling for tickets costing $4.50 for a single admission and $9 for couples.

The club has hopes of raising more than $1,000 at the party in an effort to boost the sports committee's "Project — Let's Light the Way."

The project is set up to earn nearly $100,000 for the lighting of one softball field and one football field in Romulus.

At its recent "Let's Light the Way Ball," the Sports Fund Development Committee earned enough money for a down payment on lighting the softball field at the Elmer Johnson Park in the city.

Construction on lighting the ball field is expected to coincide with construction of the park this spring.

The sports fund committee soon will be soliciting donations from area businesses and service clubs in an effort to get closer to the $100,000 goal.

April 15 is a good reason to ask us about an Installoan today.

At NBD, we have more ways to get you the money you need to pay your income taxes than any other bank in town.

First, if you're an NBD customer with a good credit rating, you can walk into any NBD office and walk out with an Installoan.

And if you can't get to one of our offices during regular business hours, we have 14 NBD Instant Loan Centers open from 9 to 5 Monday through Thursday, and 9:30 to 7:30 on Friday—separate, private loan offices inside our bank where you can get a loan quickly and confidentially.

Finally, if you have NBD's Checkmate, you can write yourself a loan—simply by writing a check.

If your taxes figure out to be more than you'd figured on, remember NBD. We make more loans to more people in more ways than any other bank in town.

Sports Meridian

Some pet peeves

By TOM MOORADIAN

Some "things" this sportswriter abhors:

...Watching state troopers escorting basketball officials off the court during the halftime and after a game because the refs fear for their lives;

...Coaches who constantly taunt basketball officials who are trying to call a game;

...Parents who call the sports desk and ask the writer to give this or that player ink;

...Coaches who call the sports desk three or four days after an event and ask us if we're interested in a story. (We're a daily, remember?)

...Athletic directors who don't get their schedules to us in time, so that we miss an event;

...Letter writers who give us their opinions about coaches but aren't man or woman enough to sign their names to what they write;

...Photographers who think sportswriters and editors know every player and athlete in the area and don't get correct identifications;

...School boards who refuse to release the names of new coaches and, conversely, school boards that don't hire new coaches until the season is a couple of weeks off;

...Fans who won't stand up for our national anthem - they're lucky they live in a country that won't exile them for showing such disrespect;

...Fans who throw money and other foreign objects on the floor, endangering the players' safety. (Anyone caught doing that should be stuffed in the basket.);

...Basketball rosters that are incomplete, printed incorrectly or omit players names. (Try to find Michael Morrison's (Romulus) or Alvin Berger's (Detroit Western) names on the program at Temperance Bedford. And to top that off they peddled those programs for 25 cents.)

...Poor sportsmanship by players and, even worse, by parents;

...Ticket takers who won't honor a press card and run all over the building to find the AD; (our area schools are an exception);

...Ball-hogging;

...Athletic organizations who designate people to do their P.R. work, then won't cooperate with the people assigned to do the job;

...Athletic organizations who designate unqualified persons;

...People who think that sportswriters and editors have all the time in the world and keep on talking over the telephone after numerous hints that, "we have a deadline to meet;

...Recreation departments who get angry because their releases don't get in;

...Players who see only the basketball rims only;

...Vandals who rip off stereo radios and tape recorders while sports writers are doing their job;

...Fans who riot after a game because the outcome of the game didn't go their way;

...Coaches who don't attend All-Area meetings, then complain that their athlete was better than the one selected;

...Sports editors who don't know when to call it quits.

Coach of the Year

Wayne's mentor Haney honored

Wayne Memorial has risen to wrestling greatness in recent seasons, capturing area tournament and league honors and claiming high positions in state ratings. And the Zebras' coach, Don Haney, is quick to hand the credit for the team's success to the school system's mat program instead of himself.

"A wrestling coach is really not as important as the entire program itself," insisted Haney, the Daily Eagle and Associated Newspapers' wrestling Coach of the Year for the third time.

"For instance, Wayne has an outstanding feeder system in the junior highs that train wrestlers to step into our program. We get a lot of hard-nosed type of kids and that makes it all a success."

HANEY HAS spent 15 years on the Wayne faculty and has served as head wrestling coach the last six. He was chosen Coach of the Year last season and in 1970-71.

Wayne stormed to an 18-1 dual meet season in 1973-74, won the inaugural Great

DON HANEY
Coach of the Year

Lakes Eight League championship, claimed 11 different tournament titles throughout the season and earned a fourth place ranking in the state Class A listings. The Zebras were rated number one for much of the season before slipping in the latter stages of the mat campaign.

"The state title — that's what eluded us," said Haney.

"We should have done better at the state meet."

Although the Zebras missed out on their big dream, they still can rest with the notion that they are easily the best Wayne team ever. "Without a doubt," echoed Haney, "it's the best Wayne's ever had."

"IN DUAL MEET competition I think we probably were the best team in the state, too," he added. "The state tournament is based more on individual effort."

Haney acknowledged the valuable contributions of assistant coach Jim Zoltowski in the maintaining of Wayne's elite program and boasted that the school "has just about everything a good program needs." What it doesn't have, however, is a wrestling room — a subject which has created much controversy among the school officials.

But even that issue has its bright sides, and Haney is hopeful it will be resolved soon in favor of adding the room. Just imagine how much better the Zebras might be then.

All-Area is a state power

Assemble a high school wrestling team that could win the state Class A championship?

No problem. First, draft six wrestlers who helped Wayne Memorial to a phenomenal season, add five more from Romulus, including a state champ, then round out the roster with a wrestler who finished second in the state from Garden City West.

THE LINEUP, coaches and fans will agree, would have little difficulty winning the state title.

And here is that mythical All-Area first team: Paul Goosby (98-pounds) from Wayne Memorial, Lamar Sandusky (105), Romulus, Phil Ford (112), Romulus, Randy Steckroth (119), Garden City West, Bob Colaianne (126), Wayne Memorial, Larry Silvestri (132), Wayne Memorial, Brad Smith (138), Romulus and Rudy Williams (155), Romulus.

In the heavyweights are Bob Nesbitt (167), Wayne Memorial, Joe Parr (185), Wayne Memorial and Henry Reid (heavyweight), Romulus.

Nine members of the first team are seniors while two are juniors and one a sophomore. Six of them — Ford, Colaianne, Silvestri, Smith, Bullard and Reid are repeaters — a rare feat, indeed, in these days of upsets.

GOOSBY, one of the two juniors, amassed a 41-7-0 won-lost-tied record in helping Wayne Memorial pile up an 18-1 over-all dual meet record which included 10 of 12 tournament victories and a fourth place finish in the state.

Goosby was one of 12 Zebras who accounted for a "perfect season" in the Great Lakes 8 Conference. Wayne went undefeated in the new league and also won all 12 individual weight class titles.

He was one of 11 Zebras qualifiers from the districts, finished fourth in the regionals and won one of two matches in the state.

SANDUSKY is the only sophomore to break into the All-Area first team lineup. His credentials include a 35-6-2 record and he'll prove tough next year for Coach Jim Stallings believes the 15-year-old grappler got the experience to make him a "blue chip" competitor in 1975.

Ford is another one of Stallings' key performers. With a 37-8-0 over-all record, Phil won the 112-pound class title at the regional, however, he lost to West Bloomfield's Jim Fink in the state finals after compiling a 2-2 record.

STECKROTH brought the curtains down to one of the most successful wrestling careers in West High mat history. Runnerup in the state to Temperance Bedford's Dennis Brighton, Randy captured three consecutive Tri-River Conference titles, (only one of two persons ever to do so) and also finished second to Brighton in the regional.

Steckroth wound up his senior year with a 26-8-0 record.

COLAIANNE, the only other junior in the first team lineup, had picked up 33 victories in 43 outings on the mat this season. After qualifying for the regionals, he won the regional championship at 126, then went on to place fifth in the state.

Coach Don Haney will be happy to have Bob back for the 1975 season when the Zebras will again be a force to contend with not only on the local scene but statewide.

SILVESTRI came within reach of the state title again for the second straight year. The 132-pound Wayne senior, however, was forced to settle for third place, a spot he finished in a year before.

Larry, one of the 12 league champs, had a 42-4-0 record and also won the regional crown.

Smith is a two-time state champ, having won the title at 135 last year he repeated at 138 this year.

"He is probably the best all-around wrestler I have ever coached," said Stallings. Brad has scores of offers from colleges and universities and will be an excellent college wrestler.

SMITH won 45 of his 47 matches this season and is also a repeat regional champ as well as All-Area member.

Bullard suffered from the flu during the state meet which wiped out his chances of winning a state title. However, John annexed the regional and conference titles to his many accomplishments in finishing

11 are league champs

Of the 12 high school wrestlers who are being honored on the All-Area's second team, 11 of them claim individual titles in their respective leagues.

Ken Arble, a 98-pound senior from Westland John Glenn, and Pat Cundiff, a 126-pounder from Garden City West, also were named to the team last year.

The lineup also includes Gary Pate (105), Wayne Memorial; Mark Ellis (112), Wayne Memorial; Bob Matheson (119), Wayne Memorial; Hubert Russell (132), Belleville; Steve Fedulchak (138), Wayne Memorial; Bill Panyard (138), Westland John Glenn, and Randy Epley (155), Livonia Franklin.

Rounding out the roster are George Medley (167), Belleville; Jim Tucker (185), Garden City West, and Pat Malaney (heavyweight), Westland John Glenn.

ARBLE ENDED his prep wrestling career with a 25-5-1 won-lost record which included the Northwest Suburban Conference title. He also helped Coach Bob Lusk's Rockets retain the league team title.

Pate, who won the Great Lakes 8 championship at 105, finished second at the regional, piled up a 17-11-0 mark this year and is one of four members of Coach Don Haney's contingent named to the second team. Ellis also was a league champ and was fourth at the regional.

Matheson walked on to the mat 51 times this year and strolled off a winner 43 of those times. He was a league champ and ended up in second place at the regionals but fell short in his bid for a state title.

CUNDIFF, A senior who piled up a 20-7 over-all record, helped West retain the Tri-River Conference championship. A versatile athlete, Pat also won the individual league title at 126.

Russell is one of two

Belleville wrestlers to be represented on the All-Area team. He had a 22-12-0 record in his senior year and also qualified for the state by placing fourth at the tough Temperance Bedford Regional.

Fedulchak wrapped up his wrestling career at Wayne with an impressive 21-6-0 over-all record which included the league title and a second place finish at the regional to Romulus' state champ, Brad Smith. He was instrumental in helping the Zebras win 10 of 12 tournaments this season and finish with the Great Lakes 8, regional titles and fourth in the state.

Panyard also ended his prep career, bowing out with the Northwest Suburban Conference title, fourth place in the regional and a 25-11-0 record.

EPLLEY IS no stranger to All-Area teams. An excellent athlete who was honored as a top-notch grinder, the 17-year-old Franklin senior captured the Northwest Suburban Conference title at 155-pounds. He also amassed a 25-7-0 record.

Medley placed fourth at the regional after piling up a 22-5-0 over-all record as a member of Coach Gerald Malecek's contingent.

West will have the services of Jim Tucker for another year. The 16-year-old junior, who is following a family tradition that boasts excellent wrestlers, Jim won the Tri-River Conference title and also picked up 20 out of 28 victories.

Malaney is a versatile athlete having lettered in football as well as wrestling. He compiled a 31-6-0 record this season, but unfortunately, had to wrestle in the shadows of Romulus' Henry Reid who had an undefeated season right up to the state finals.

Gymnasts to compete

The Michigan Association of Gymnasts and its affiliate Women's Commission of State Tumbling and Trampoline championships will be held at Southfield-Lathrup High School on Saturday, March 30 at 10 a.m.

Sponsored by the Southfield Association for Gymnastics, the championships will feature top gymnasts from Michigan and Windsor, Canada, vying for honors in four age groups. Medals and ribbons will be awarded, courtesy of Roger Pepske Chevrolet of Sluethfield.

Approximately 200 to 300 gymnasts are expected to compete.

Admission is 50 cents for students and $1 for adults.

All-Area has power

Finishing third in the regional at 145, Williams moved up to 155 during the state meet and was eliminated in the first round. However, te Romulus senior had an excellent 36-12-0 showing for his accomplishments this season. Nesbitt, a member of Wayne's "perfect team," won 42 while losing 11 this season. He finished second in the regional after helping the Zebras to a phenomenal season. He also captured the league title.

Parr also came out of the 1974 campaign with an excellent 35-17-0 over-all record which included the league title and a second place (to Trenton's Joe Dixon) in the regionals.

Anchoring the first team is Romulus' Henry Reid whose only losses came at the state finals.

Redi had a fantastic string of 47 victories before losing to state runnerup Steve McRoberts of Portage Centre, 3-2, at the state finals.

"Reid is the strongest wrestler I have ever coached," said Stallings, "he had a fantastic year but, unfortunately, we let the state title slip away."

"But you'll be hearing a lot about him, believe me," the Romulus coach added. "And you'll be hearing a lot about all of the members of the 1974 All-Area team, believe me."

Susterka shoots for NCAA

Ypsilanti, Mich. — Bill Brinkman, a senior from Allen Park, and Barry Susterka, a sophomore from Belleville, will be representing Eastern Michigan University and vying for national honors at the NCAA-University Division Swimming and Diving Championships which start Thursday at Long Beach, Calif.

Brinkman, holder of two EMU varsity records in the breaststroke, qualified by winning the 200-yard event in the Mid-American Conference Championships at Kent State. The Huron co-captain clicked off the distance in a conference-record time of 2:12.7 eclipsing the previous mark of 2:14.4 set by Ohio's Neal Wade in 1970.

SUSTERKA, meanwhile, qualified in both the one- and three-meter diving events after winning both titles in the conference championship meet.

In winning the three-meter event, Susterka set a varsity record as he accumulated 334.75 points, surpassing the mark of 323.60 set by Rich deManincor last year.

Susterka's brilliant performance on the one-meter board, in which he notched 464.78 points, wiped out a 21-year-old conference record set by Ohio's John Botuchis in 1953.

The competition, set for the Long Beach Belmont Plaza Pool, runs through Saturday with powerful Indiana of the Big Ten favored to win its seventh straight national team title.

Tomorrow's horoscope

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) If you don't know how to take care of a development, get the advice of an expert. Use caution in new, different duties.

TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) You get fine ideas now, but study them well and consult with experts. Fix a better budget for yourself. Save on expenses to have more for the future.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A day when you are quite active at one time, then find it difficult to do anything well at all, so take it philosophically. Use common sense.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Know what your friends are doing, otherwise you could get into trouble with some of them now. Avoid a troublesome group.

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) Forget ideas that aren't practical and get into something very different that is fine. A new friend is not quite what you like, so quietly drop this person.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) Handle credit matters well and don't anger one who has power over you. Avoid unwise action also in some personal matter.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22) You have new ideas and outlets that should be studied well before putting in operation. An upsetting message will work out fine if you use tact.

SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21) Knowing what others really expect of you and pleasing them is your best course now. Take moodiness of loved one in stride. The planets have strange aspects now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) Carry out any promises made concerning policy affairs. Do nothing to spoil your public image; show gentility.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) Make sure your strenuous work you're eager to do is constructive. Don't offend co-workers, or you get into arguments best avoided.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) Have a good time, but don't be unconventional. Stay within the limit of your budget. Be thoughtful of one you love for fine rapport.

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) Use much care in dealing with kin, but it's not good for entertaining at home today or tonight. Buy small gifts to show family you care.

ON THE JOB — Congressman William Ford (D-15th District) offers a few pointers on page duties to Congressional Page Mark von Destinon of Belleville. A former Belleville High School student, Mark has been a page in Washington for almost three months. He currently attends the Capitol Page School, where classes begin at 6 a.m., and acts as a messenger in the Capitol Building until Congress adjourns each day. The youth plans to attend college in the fall. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Von Destinon.

It's unprecedented PCHA approves budget hike

The Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA) will operate with an unprecedented $145.7 million budget this year, up 1.2 per cent from last year's $144 million budget.

While some member communities experienced drops in the millage levy, all area cities involved will experience increases, due to a rise in their state equalized value during the past year.

The millage for the member communities is set at 4 mill. However, the change in valuation in the cities will increase the revenues collected by PCHA without increasing taxes.

THE MILLAGE now will raise 1.7 per cent, of $1.6 million, of the total revenues for PCHA.

Wayne will see its contribution to the authority increase by nine per cent from $51,000 to $55,600 this year.

Westland's share will increase by 7.5 per cent from $127,300 to $136,800.

Garden City will increase its contribution by $3,000, from $53,100 to $56,100, and Inkster will increase its contribution from $46,200 to $48,900.

THE BUDGET increase came under limitations which restricted the PCHA to a 5.5 per cent wage increase for employees during the next fiscal year, a total of fringe benefits .7 per cent for costs other than employee.

At the same time, the authority has been limited to an average of six per cent hike in rates during the next year and a net income not to exceed 2.6 per cent.

All the limitations are set under Phase Four of the economic gain plan established by President Nixon last year.

Under the Phase Four of the economic stabilization act, only the hospital industry is under the limitations while all other industries are allowed to seek their own levels of increases.

DURING the past year expenses rose 8.1 per cent, according to the cost of living index in Michigan.

In order to finance the budget, daily room rates in a semi-private room have been raised from $64 to $69, a 7.8 per cent increase. Private room and ward costs were increased from $69 to $74, a 7.2 per cent increase, and increased from $62 to $67, an 8.1 per cent increase.

Judge issues fraud case sentence

A convicted tax return preparer, Mrs. Mary McKee, 55, now is serving a two-year probationary sentence imposed by U.S. District Court Judge Thomas P. Thornton last week.

The probationary sentence given to Mrs. McKee, who operates the McKee Bookkeeping and Tax Service on 4550 Textile Rd., Ypsilanti, after a review by the court of the original 1970 sentence of three years in the custody of the attorney general.

She was convicted after a week-long trial in Detroit on 15 counts of preparing fraudulent tax returns for her Belleville and Ypsilanti area clients.

The government contended that Mrs. McKee, the mother of three and a former bookkeeper for the Sumpter Board of Education, cost her clients more than $700,000 in additional taxes and penalties.

Under the terms of her original sentence, Mrs. McKee had to undergo 90 days of psychiatric testing and observation.

She has been free on a $5,000 bond for the past three years pending various appeals.

74-213
Motion by Block, supported by Lee, that Resolution 74-213 (Abolishment of Escrow Fund for Water and Sewer Bond Issue) be adopted.

RESOLUTION 74-213
WHEREAS: The City of Romulus and the Wayne County Road Commission have an amount of $184,887.50 in the debt reserve fund to assure payment of the 1963 Sewer Bond Issue S-208; and

WHEREAS: The City of Romulus and the Wayne County Road Commission concur that said amount is a sufficient amount to be maintained as a debt reserve pending the retirement of said Bond; and

WHEREAS: The County of Wayne is holding an additional $220,362.26, remaining from the initial contract cost for sewer installation completed as a result of aforementioned bond issue; and

WHEREAS: The County of Wayne is in agreement to release said funds for the payment of principal and interest on Bond Issue Romulus Series II due June 1, 1974 in the amount of $130,821.45, leaving a balance of $89,540.81 which would be applied to the payment due June 1, 1975; and

WHEREAS: The City of Romulus' concurrence with the aforementioned payment schedule would preclude the necessity for the City of Romulus to budget equal amounts during these periods for the purpose of payment of bond issue and would release said amounts for other water and sewer purposes.

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED: That the City of Romulus does, herewith, set forth its recommendation to the County of Wayne authorizing payment of principal and interest on Romulus Bond Issue Series II due June 1, 1974 in the amount of $130,821.45. Said funds shall be taken from surplus funds of $220,362.26.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That the remaining $89,540.81 be applied to the payment of the principal and interest on Romulus Bond Series II due June 1, 1975.

BE IT FINALLY RESOLVED: That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the attention of the Wayne County Road Commission.

Further, that a No-Fee Permit for said function be issued by the City Clerk. Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Oakley, Trumble, Stewart, Block, Coleman, Lee, McAnally. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

74-217
Motion by Oakley, supported by Stewart, that Resolution 74-217 (Discontinuance of 1-94 Billboard) be adopted.

RESOLUTION 74-217
WHEREAS: The State of Michigan, as a result of its enforcement of Act 106, P.A. of 1972, has ordered the City of Romulus to take immediate action to remove the Kelsey-Hayes lettering from the City of Romulus' billboard, located on the north side of I-94 between Dodge and Burton Streets, Control 82022, Project 82-96, Parcels 80 & 94, agree to purchase the property under the Departments Excess Property Disposal Procedures, requiring a 10-year reverter clause, and after the City acquires the property, submission of any new copies to be placed on the billboard to the Departments Billboard Coordinator for approval; and

WHEREAS: The City of Romulus has always regarded its sign and copy contained thereon as a beneficial public relations device for the City of Romulus, indeed - the State of Michigan; and

WHEREAS: The City of Romulus cannot live with the conditions set forth by the State of Michigan.

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED: That the City of Romulus does, herewith, relinquish its prayer to the State of Michigan for the continued use of said sign.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That the Mayor of the City of Romulus be authorized and directed to remove said sign.

BE IT FINALLY RESOLVED: That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the State of Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation.

Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Lee, Coleman, Block, Stewart, Oakley, McAnally. Nays - Trumble. Motion carried.

74-218
6a. Career program to study police

Through the combined efforts of the Huron Township Police Department and the Community Education Program, a career exploring program dealing with law enforcement has been established.

During the upcoming year, students interested in a career in law enforcement, will have an opportunity to meet and associate with men and women involved in police work.

A meeting, dealing with the new program, will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the gymnasium of the Huron Elementary School. The program will include a brief presentation of the activities and an outline of the agenda for the next several months.

For information on the program contact Huron Police Chief Ashby at 753-4400 or Roger Benner at 782-2441.

Dog tags available

Van Buren Township' 1974 dog licenses will go on sale April 1. All dogs more than four months of age must be licensed by June 14, Van Buren Township Treasurer Ralph Hedman said.

The license fee for male, female or unsexed dogs is $3. A penalty of $7 will be charged for all dog tags purchased after June 14 unless the dog was too young to be vaccinated and licensed before that date.

Dog licenses will be sold at the township hall, 46425 Tyler Rd., from 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and until 7 p.m. on Tuesdays.

All license applications must be accompanied by proof of current rabies vaccination.

CITY OF ROMULUS NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Notice is hereby given, that the Romulus City Planning Commission will hold a Public Hearing on April 15, 1974, at 7:00 p.m. in the City Council Chambers, 11111 Wayne Road, Romulus, Michigan on the following proposed amendments to the Zoning Ordinance text:

Revise Section 6.02 (3) to read as follows:

(3) Banks (other than drive-in types); 1 parking space per 100 square feet of useable floor area.

Business offices, post offices or professional offices of lawyers, architects or similar professions; 1 parking space per 225 square feet of gross floor area.

Amend Section 4.34 to read as follows:

Section 4.34. PROHIBITED USES IN ALL RESIDENTIAL DISTRICTS (except RMH)

a. Mobile homes, travel trailers, busses, converted busses, or boats in excess of twenty-four (24) feet in length, shall not be parked or stored in an open area for a period of more than forty-eight (48) hours, unless a permit has been issued by the Building Department. Said permit shall be valid for a period not to exceed ten (10) consecutive days out of any ninety (90) days and shall be conspicuously posted in the parked or stored vehicle or boat.

b. Commercial highway trailers and commercial vehicles with a rated capacity greater than 1½ tons shall not be parked or stored on residentially zoned property at any time.

c. Travel trailers and similar recreation vehicles, except those licensed as commercial vehicles may be stored or parked on any lot or parcel in any R1A or R1B residential district subject to the following requirements:

1. Travel Trailers parked or stored shall not have a fixed connections to electricity, water, gas or a sanitary sewer, and at no time shall such equipment be used for living, sleeping, or housekeeping purposes.

2. Any recreational vehicle not parked or stored in a garage shall be parked or stored in the rear yard, except that such vehicles may occupy a side yard provided that the minimum required side yard shall be maintained from the vehicle to the side lot line; and except that such vehicles may occupy a side or front yard for a period not to exceed forty-eight (48) hours, for loading and unloading purposes, so long as such location does not obstruct the view of driveways or vehicular and pedestrian traffic of adjoining properties.

3. The storage of travel trailers on a residential lot or parcel shall be limited to only those vehicles owned by, and licensed or registered to, the occupant of the residential lot or parcel on which the vehicle is stored.

4. Parking or storage of travel trailers, recreational vehicles or boats in the rear yard open space shall be done in such a manner that no portion of the vehicle shall be closer than 5 feet to the nearest house.

5. Travel trailers must be stored or parked in such a manner that they do not create an unsafe or dangerous condition.

d. In the case of multiple-family complexes and mobile home parks, the Planning Commission, after site plan review, may require a screened area in addition to required off-street parking spaces, for the parking or storage of travel trailers, or boats within the site.

Amend Section 15.02. Permitted Uses After Special Approval in a C-3 Highway Service District as follows:

Section 15.02

c. Outdoor mobile home, travel trailer or boat storage subject to the following regulations:

1. The minimum area of the site shall be ten thousand (10,000) square feet.

2. The minimum street frontage shall be one hundred (100) feet.

3. There shall be provided around all sides of the site except at entrances, exits and along sides of premises enclosed buildings, a fence or wall six (6) feet in height in order to intercept windblown trash and other debris.

4. Off-street parking areas and aisles, as required under Article 6, shall be paved in accordance with the requirements of Section 6.02 unless an acceptable substitute is approved by the Board of Appeals.

5. Lighting shall be installed in a manner which will not create a driving hazard on abutting streets or which will cause direct illumination on adjacent properties.

6. No major repair or major refinishing shall be done on the lot.

7. All abutting or adjacent property shall be zoned for Business or Industrial use.

8. Before approval is given for any use, a site plan shall be first submitted to the Planning Commission for review as to suitability of location of entrances and exits to the site, parking area, fencing, lighting, and other design features.

Troutt delays all calls to finish new budget

Romulus Mayor Terry Troutt will be indisposed this week for persons wishing to speak with the city's chief administrator as he goes into close door sessions in order to complete the 1974-75 fiscal budget.

"I locked myself in my office Tuesday, with instructions that no calls be sent in, unless its an extreme emergency, so I could work on the budget," Troutt said. "I intend to do the same thing either tomorrow or Friday to complete the budget by the charter-specified deadline."

TROUTT has until April 1 to submit a completed budget proposal to the Romulus City Council for its consideration.

"I'll just have to sit down with the finance people behind closed doors to insure that the council has enough time to work on the proposal," Troutt said.

Although he would not reveal his detailed plans for budget, he did say that expenditures for public services will be increased in the fiscal 1974-75 budget proposal.

"I'm looking for more police protection, possibly a juvenile officer and undercover men, and I'm looking for more equipment for the Department of Public Works," he said.

TROUTT said past histories of crime patterns in the community, particularly with juvenile offenses and rising burglary rates, dictate an increase in police work other than in uniform.

"I think it would add more punch to the present police force," Troutt said.

At the same time, he is looking toward improving the quality of the city's equipment for maintenance purposes.

"Some of our machinery is more than 11-years-old," Troutt said. "It's cheaper to buy new equipment than it would be to repair the equipment, wasting not only time the equipment could be in use, but also the time of the crews who would use it."

BUT, AS in all budgets, the question will be how to finance the changes, and Troutt would not reveal his plans.

"Hopefully, by April 1 I'll be able to tell everyone, and everyone will be happy," the mayor said.

CITY OF ROMULUS ORDINANCE

CHAPTER VI, ARTICLE 1.2

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND CHAPTER VI, ARTICLE 1 (BUILDING CODE) OF THE ROMULUS CODE OF ORDINANCES.

WHEREAS: The City Council for the City of Romulus deems it to be in the best interest of the City and the citizens of the City of Romulus to amend Sections 10.15 and 10.17 of Chapter VI, Article 1, of the Building Code in order to better protect the health, safety and welfare of the citizens of the City of Romulus.

NOW, THEREFORE, THE CITY OF ROMULUS ORDAINS:

Section 1. Short Title: Amended Building Code.

Section 2. That Chapter VI, Article 1, Section 10.15 shall be amended to read as follows:

STRUCTURAL DETAILS OF FOUNDATIONS AND BASEMENTS. All Class F buildings shall be supported on masonry walls if provided with basements or on piers if without basement.

When piers are used they shall rest upon firm soil not less than 3 feet 6 inches below grade and shall be provided with a concrete footing at least 18 inches square for 1 story buildings, or 24 inches square for 2 story buildings, and 12 inches thick in either case. Such piers above the surrounding grade exceed 5 times their least horizontal dimension. Between such piers there shall be a rat wall extending from a depth of at least 2 feet below the grade to a point at least 6 inches above grade. This rat wall shall be of brick, concrete or concrete blocks at least 3¾ inches thick or of reinforced concrete plates at least 2 inches thick, and securely attached to one another. It shall be continuous and impervious to rats. Such ratproof wall shall be provided under all porches, bay windows, and other projections for a distance of 8 inches above the grade is open or enclosed only with open lattice or wire mesh.

Sheds attached to dwellings, but not used for habitation, and private garages of brick veneer or masonry construction, either attached to residence or erected on rear half of lot, shall have foundations at least 42 inches in depth and ten inches in width. Frame garages not attached to residences may have a ratwall of concrete 24 inches in depth and six inches thick to a height of at least six inches above grade, so constructed as to be impervious to rats. Footings for masonry garages or all types of attached garages may be of eight-inch poured concrete at least eight inches wider than block foundation walls.

Whenever basements are provided and in all other Class F building other than buildings supported on piers and sheds as given above the footings for foundation walls shall be of concrete at least 8 inches wider than the wall, projecting 4 inches on each side and at least 8 inches thick. These concrete footings shall be properly mixed and placed in forms not less than 8 inches deep. Interior footings for stanchions or piers shall be at least 30 inches square and at least 16 inches thick and larger if required to safely distribute the load. All footings shall be allowed to set 12 hours before the wall is started. The bottom of all such footings shall be rested upon firm soil and all exterior wall footings and step footings shall be at least 3 feet 6 inches below grade, except foundation walls for Class F buildings without basements may be poured concrete in neat trenches having 8 inch thickness for 1 story and 12 inch thickness for 2 story buildings.

Foundation walls under dwellings shall be of brick, approved concrete, cinder or slag block at least 12 inches thick or poured concrete of at least 2500 pound test 10 inches thick. All reinforced concrete walls shall be constructed as required in Section 18.88.

Masonry of foundation walls shall be carried up to the bearing plate under the joists, and the space over the foundation wall to the floor boards above shall be filled with masonry or shall be fire-stopped with sheet metal of not less than 24 U.S. gauge or a header of 2 inch nominal thickness the same depth as the joist plate flush with the inside wall. This shall be done on walls parallel with joists as well as those intersected with joists.

All exterior basement walls below grade shall be waterproofed on the outside with ½ inch of approved cement plaster applied in two coats and coated with an asphaltic base waterproofing material. Plain or reinforced concrete walls must be waterproofed with an asphaltic base coating. The plaster coat shall continue down to the top of footing projection and a fillet of not less than 3 inch radius shall be provided at such footing projection. See Section 15.00.

Tile drains at least 4 inches in diameter shall be placed around the outside of the basement wall, level at the bottom of the footings.

Such tile drains shall be brought inside the basement through or under the footings, at least 1 in each side wall, not more than 50 feet apart, and connected by means of crock pipe with bituminous joints to the house drain through a sump or trap. When the sewer is above the level of said tile drains, the system of tile drains must lead into the basement and drain into a sump equipped with an automatic lift pump. The concrete footings shall not be poured until after such crock pipe has been installed; provided, however, where drainage pipes are installed through the footings, a concrete slab equal in thickness to the diameter of such pipe must be installed in addition to the required footing under said pipe and for a distance of 12 inches on each side with not less than 4 inches concrete on top of such pipe.

The connections between the trap or sump and the drain tile shall be made with 4-inch vitrified crock laid in a trench leading towards such house drain. Open joints in outside drain tiles shall be covered with bituminous paper and at least 8 inches of coarse cinders or gravel shall be placed over such drain tile before backfilling. See Section 14.29.

The trap shall be placed close to the outside wall and the main pipe line between the trap or sump and the drain tile shall be made with 4 inch vitrified crock with bituminous joints laid in a trench leading towards such house drain. Open joints in drain tiles shall be covered with bituminous paper and at least 12 inches of washed gravel, stone or slag shall be placed over such drain tile before backfilling. See Section 10.16. Refer to Plate No. 1, attached hereto.

As an alternate to the above tile drain requirement it will be permissible to connect the outside tile drains to the house sewer outside of the basement wall by means of a crock pipe being inserted in the house sewer and two connections made, one on each side of said house sewer, to the tile drain. Refer to Plat No. 2 for detail, attached hereto.

Basement floors shall be made of concrete at least four (4) inches thick, laid on a four (4) inch bed of coarse gravel or compressed sand.

All verticle bearing members and all shims or block under such members, below the first floor line shall be iron, steel or masonry. Wrought iron or steel stanchions shall weigh at least 8 pounds per lineal foot and shall be provided with a cap and base of at least three-sixteenths inch steel plate.

All basements shall have a clear height of at least 7 feet 2 inches from the highest part of a basement floor to the underside of first floor joists. Where sheet metal or aluminum heating ducts are installed below first floor joists a minimum ceiling height of 6 feet 6 inches from the basement floor to the underside of duct work and to 1 beam must be provided.

Section 3. That Chapter VI, Article 1, Section 10.17 shall be amended to read as follows:

FRAME FLOOR CONSTRUCTION. The sizes of all joists and girders shall be calculated from the stresses given in Chapter 16, 17, or 18.

All wood joists shall be spaced not over 16 inches on centers and shall be securely bridged with at least sound nominal 1 inch by 2 inch wood cross bracing, or by solid block bridging 2 inches nominal width snugly fitted and doubly nailed at each end at intervals of not over 7 feet from supports to lines of bridging or between lines of bridging, or strap iron cross bracing may be used, such strap iron to be provided with nail holes, to have a net effective cross section of not less than 3-100 of a square inch and to be securely nailed at the top and bottom of each brace; provided, however, that if joists are desired to be spaced other than 16 inches on centers, they shall be constructed in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 16 of this Code. Steel joists shall be installed as required in Section 17.10.

Not less than 2 joists shall be provided under any partition parallel to joists or around any floor opening.

Stair wells or other openings framed across the run of floor joists shall have headers of the same size timbers as the joists but if supporting more than 1 joists the headers shall not be stressed greater than allowed in Section 16.2 or shall be as follows:

Headers supporting not over 5 joists, double.

Headers supporting not over 7 joists, triple.

Larger openings shall be supported on partitions, stanchions or on large timbers or steel framing.

Trimmer joists supporting headers that support more than 1 joist shall be doubled.

Trimmer joists supporting headers that support more than 5 joists shall be tripled.

Trimmer joists supporting headers that support more than 7 joists shall be supported by partitions, stanchions or other vertical members or by large timbers or steel framing of adequate size.

Headers supporting more than 2 joists and supported from other joists shall be attached with joist hangers approved by the Department.

Over all floor joists there shall be a sub-floor of ½" plywood or ¾" wood boards attached to each joist, with two eight penny common nails for each piece of sub-flooring 6" in width. All end joints in sub-flooring shall be over joists. Over the sub-floor there shall be a finished floor of wood or other suitable material at least ¾" thick, but a ¾" or more hardwood top floor may be used if the sub-floor is increased to give a total thickness of sub-floor and top floor of not less than 1 5-16". Required nails shall be placed at 6" centers at edges of wood sub-floor and that center portions of sub-floor shall have nails placed of not less than 10" on centers.

In all first floors a building paper shall be provided between the sub-floor and any wooden top floor. All attics having stairways leading to the same shall be covered with at least 1 thickness of flooring or sub-flooring in all parts where headroom is more than 4 feet.

When floors for dwellings are built directly on the ground at grade level, without excavation below, they shall be constructed as follows:

At least 2 inches of concrete shall be laid as a sub-floor over sub-soil, crushed stone, brick or sand provided, however, there shall be installed asphalt insulation 1 inch thick along the outer edge of the sub-floor, flush with the top of the finish floor and extending for a width of 2 feet under the sub-floor around the outer rim thereof; and the top of this sub-floor shall be effectively waterproofed with a vapor barrier of asphalt saturated building paper equal to 30-pound felt with a 4-inch lap. A finished concrete floor of at least 2 inches thick shall be installed over the vapor barrier. If wood-finish floor is installed, sleepers filled with gravel or other concrete.

FLOOR AREA. The floor area for a 1-family, 1-story dwelling with a basement shall be not less than 900 square feet.

The floor area for a 1½ story, 1-family dwelling with basement shall be not less than 900 square feet for the first story.

The floor area of the first floor of a 2-story, 1-family dwelling with a basement shall be not less than 550 square feet.

The floor area of the first floor of a 1½ story income-type dwelling with a basement designed for 1 family unit on each floor shall be not less than 850 square feet.

The floor area for a 2-story, 2-family dwelling with a basement designed for 1 family unit on each floor shall be not less than 720 square feet for each floor.

The floor area for 1-story, ranch type 1-family dwelling without a basement shall be not less than 1200 square feet.

If the structure is a duplex-type, 2-family dwelling with a basement divided by a fire wall, the combined floor area for each dwelling unit shall be not less than 850 square feet.

In all dwellings, all bedrooms shall have a floor area of not less than 100 square feet.

Section 4. This ordinance shall take immediate effect upon publication of the same as provided by the City Charter. I, Leonard J. Folmar, Clerk, for the City of Romulus do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true copy of an ordinance adopted by the Romulus City Council at its regular meeting held on the 12th day of March, 1974.

Leonard J. Folmar, Clerk
City of Romulus

ATTEST:

Terry L. Troutt, Mayor
Within forty-five (45) days after the publication of any ordinance duly passed by the Council, a petition may be presented to the Council protesting against such ordinance continuing in effect. Said petition shall contain the text of such ordinance and shall be signed by not less than six (6 percent) percent of the registered electors registered at the last preceding election at which a Mayor of the City was elected. Said ordinance shall thereupon and thereby be suspended from operation and the Council shall immediately reconsider such ordinance.
